Suggested corrections of this kind are subject to the agreement of the departments concerned.

The heading for any amendment to an existing act that the draft act seeks to amend includes a third line identifying the existing act and a fourth line identifying the provision in that act that Parliament wishes to amend. Passages in an existing act that Parliament wishes to amend, but that the draft act has left unchanged, are highlighted in bold.  - having regard to Article 294(3) of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union,
 - having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee of 11 July 2013¹,

Amendment 1

Proposal for a regulation

Recital 5

Text proposed by the Commission

(5) The scope of this Regulation should cover public documents drawn up by authorities of the Member States and having formal evidentiary value relating to birth, death, name, marriage or registered

Amendment

(5) The scope of this Regulation should cover certain public documents drawn up by authorities of the Member States and having formal evidentiary value. Simplification of the acceptance of these partnership, parenthood, adoption, residence, citizenship, nationality, real estate, legal status and representation of a company or other undertaking, intellectual property rights and absence of a criminal record. Simplification of the acceptance of these categories of public documents between the Member States should bring tangible benefits to Union citizens and companies or other undertakings. Because of their different legal nature, documents drawn up by private persons should be excluded from its scope. Documents drawn up by authorities of third countries should likewise fall outside the scope of this Regulation.

categories of public documents between the Member States should bring tangible benefits to Union citizens and companies or other undertakings. Because of their different legal nature, documents drawn up by private persons should be excluded from its scope. Documents drawn up by authorities of third countries should likewise fall outside the scope of this Regulation.

Or. de

Justification

The Regulation should apply to the acceptance of a larger number of public documents.

Amendment 2

Proposal for a regulation

Recital 6

Text proposed by the Commission

(6) The aim of this Regulation is not to change the substantive law of the Member States relating to birth, death, name, marriage, registered partnership, parenthood, adoption, residence, citizenship or nationality, real estate, legal status of a company or other undertaking, intellectual property rights or absence of a criminal record.

Amendment

(6) The aim of this Regulation is not to change the substantive law of the Member States relating to the legal facts and transactions evidenced by public documents.

Or. de

Justification

The Regulation should apply to the acceptance of a larger number of public documents.

Amendment 3

Proposal for a regulation Recital 12

Text proposed by the Commission

(12) The authorities of a Member State in which a public document or its certified copy is presented should have the possibility to submit requests for information to the relevant authorities of the Member State where these documents were issued, either by using the Internal Market Information System directly, or by contacting the central authority of their Member State, when they have reasonable doubt about the authenticity of these documents. The same possibility should be given to entities authorised by virtue of an act or an administrative decision to carry out public duties. The requested authorities should reply to such requests within the shortest possible period of time and in any case not exceeding one month. If the reply of the requested authorities does not confirm the authenticity of the public document or of its certified copy, the requesting authority should not be obliged to accept them.

Amendment

(12) The authorities of a Member State in which a public document or its copy is presented should have the possibility to submit requests for information to the relevant authorities of the Member State where this document was issued, either by using the Internal Market Information System directly, or by contacting the central authority of their Member State, when they have reasonable doubt about the authenticity of these documents. The same possibility should be given to entities authorised by virtue of an act or an administrative decision to carry out public duties. The requested authorities should reply to such requests within the shortest possible period of time and in any case not exceeding one month. If the reply of the requested authorities does not confirm the authenticity of the public document, the requesting authority should not be obliged to accept it.

Or. de

Justification

The increasingly outmoded formality of the certified copy, which has already been abolished in many Member States, should also be abolished in cross-border cases.

Amendment 4

Proposal for a regulation Recital 16

Text proposed by the Commission

(16) Union multilingual standard forms should be established in all official

Amendment

(16) Union multilingual standard forms should be established in all official languages of the Union for public documents relating to birth, death, marriage, registered partnership and legal status and representation of a company or other undertaking in order to avoid the need for Union citizens and companies or other undertakings to produce translations in cases where they would otherwise be required.

languages of the Union for public documents relating to various legal facts and transactions in order to avoid the need for Union citizens and companies or other undertakings to produce translations in cases where they would otherwise be required.

Or. de

Justification

The idea of Union multilingual standard forms should not be confined to a few cases.

Amendment 5

Proposal for a regulation

Recital 17

Text proposed by the Commission

(17) Union multilingual standard forms should be issued upon request to citizens and companies or other undertakings entitled to receive the equivalent public documents existing in the issuing Member State and under the same conditions. The standard forms should have the same formal evidentiary value as the equivalent public documents drawn up by the authorities of the issuing Member State, leaving the choice to Union citizens and companies or other undertakings in each individual case to use them or the equivalent national documents. Union multilingual standard forms should not produce legal effects as regards the recognition of their content in the Member States where they are presented. The Commission should develop detailed guidance on their use, by associating central authorities for that purpose.

Amendment

(17) Union multilingual standard forms should be issued upon request to citizens and companies or other undertakings entitled to receive a public document issued by the issuing Member State in evidence of the particular legal facts and transactions and under the same conditions. The standard forms should have the same formal evidentiary value as the equivalent public documents drawn up by the authorities of the issuing Member State, leaving the choice to Union citizens and companies or other undertakings in each individual case to use them or the equivalent national documents. Union multilingual standard forms should not produce legal effects as regards the recognition of their content in the Member States where they are presented. The Commission should develop detailed guidance on their use, by associating central authorities for that purpose.

Or. de

Justification

It should also be possible to issue an EU form if no exact equivalent exists in the Member State concerned but a public authority is nonetheless in a position to confirm the legal facts or transactions in question.

Amendment 6

Proposal for a regulation
Recital 21 a (new)

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment

(21a) As the institutions, bodies, offices and agencies of the European Union and the European Schools increasingly also have a direct administrative role, they should be equated with the authorities of the Member States for the purpose of issuing and accepting public documents.

Or. de

Justification

In a few cases, European Union administrative authorities may themselves directly issue public documents or have to accept documents from the Member States. Examples of this might be decisions of the EU authorities in cases relating to trade marks and patents, as well as diplomas from the European Schools. In order to make life easier for citizens and businesses in these cases too, the simplifications provided for in this Regulation should also apply to EU authorities.

Amendment 7

Proposal for a regulation
Article 1 – point 2

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment

It also establishes Union multilingual standard forms concerning birth, death, marriage, registered partnership and legal status and representation of a company or other undertaking.

It also establishes Union multilingual standard forms concerning various legal facts and transactions.

Or. de

Justification

A larger number of forms should be introduced.

Amendment 8

Proposal for a regulation

Article 3 – point 1

Text proposed by the Commission

(1) "public documents" means documents issued by authorities of a Member State and having formal evidentiary value relating to:

(a) birth;

(b) death;

(c) name;

(d) marriage and registered partnership;

(e) parenthood;

(f) adoption;

(g) residence;

(h) citizenship and nationality;

(i) real estate;

(j) legal status and representation of a company or other undertaking;

Amendment

(1) "public documents" means documents issued by authorities of a Member State or by EU authorities, including Union multilingual standard forms as referred to in Article 11, and having formal evidentiary value relating to:

(a) the identity of a natural person;

(b) the signature of a natural person;

(c) the civil status and family relationships of a natural person;

(d) inheritance and the administration of estates;

(g) residence;

(ga) civil rights and electoral rights;

(gb) immigration status;

(gc) academic qualifications and academic record;

(gd) health, including officially recognised disability;

(h) citizenship and nationality;

(i) real estate;

(j) legal status and representation of a company or other undertaking;

(ja) the legal form and representation of other legal persons;

(jb) the tax obligations and status of a

- (k) intellectual property rights;
- (l) absence of a criminal record;

- natural or legal person;*
- (jc) the tax and customs status of assets;*
- (jd) social insurance entitlements of all kinds;*
- (k) intellectual property rights;
- (l) absence of a criminal record and/or entries in criminal records;

Or. de

Justification

The simplification of the acceptance of public documents should be extended to a larger number of categories. In addition, the simplifications should also apply to EU authorities.

Amendment 9

Proposal for a regulation Article 3 – point 2

Text proposed by the Commission

(2) "authority" means a public authority of a Member State or entity authorised by virtue of an act or an administrative decision to carry out public duties;

Amendment

(2) "authority" means a public authority of a Member State or an entity authorised by virtue of an act or an administrative decision to carry out public duties, including courts or notaries issuing public documents as referred to in point 1, or an EU authority;

Or. de

Justification

It should be made clear that in some Member States courts and notaries may also be regarded as authorities. In the few cases in which EU authorities perform direct administrative tasks, the simplification of formalities should also apply to them.

Amendment 10

Proposal for a regulation Article 3 – point 2 a (new)

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment

(2a) “EU authorities” means institutions, bodies, offices and agencies of the European Union and the European Schools;

Or. de

Justification

In the few cases in which EU authorities perform direct administrative tasks, the simplification of formalities should also apply to them.

Amendment 11

Proposal for a regulation Article 3 – point 4

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment

(4) “similar formality” means the addition of the certificate foreseen by the Hague Convention of 1961 abolishing the requirement of legalisation for foreign public documents;

(4) “apostille” means the addition of the certificate foreseen by the Hague Convention of 1961 abolishing the requirement of legalisation for foreign public documents;

(This amendment applies throughout the text; its adoption will necessitate adjustments throughout the text.)

Or. de

Justification

The ‘similar formality’ referred to in this somewhat awkward formulation is generally known as ‘apostille’. This should be altered throughout the text in order to make the reference easier to understand.

Amendment 12

Proposal for a regulation Article 4

Text proposed by the Commission

Public documents shall be exempted from all forms of legalisation and similar formality.

Amendment

Authorities shall accept public documents submitted to them which have been issued by authorities of another Member State or by EU authorities without legalisation or an Apostille.

Or. de

Justification

This does not alter the substance of the provision. However, it should be made clear in what circumstances legalisation or an apostille are not required: when the document is being submitted to an authority of another Member State.

Amendment 13

Proposal for a regulation Article 5 – title

Text proposed by the Commission

Certified copies and originals of public documents

Amendment

Copies and originals of public documents

Or. de

Justification

In many Member States, the formality of a certified copy is no longer in use. Citizens regard this as considerable progress in eliminating red tape. It should also be made possible in cross-border situations.

Amendment 14

Proposal for a regulation Article 5 – paragraph 1

Text proposed by the Commission

1. Authorities shall not require parallel

Amendment

1. Authorities shall accept, instead of the presentation of the original of a public document and of its certified copy issued by the authorities of other Member States.

original of a public document issued by the authorities of other Member States or by EU authorities, a certified or uncertified copy thereof.

Or. de

Justification

In many Member States, the formality of a certified copy is no longer in use. Citizens regard this as considerable progress in eliminating red tape. It should also be made possible in cross-border situations.

Amendment 15

Proposal for a regulation
Article 5 – paragraph 2

Text proposed by the Commission

2. Where the original of a public document issued by the authorities of one Member State is presented together with its copy, the authorities of the other Member States shall accept such copy without certification.

Amendment

2. If, in an individual case, an authority has reasonable doubts concerning the authenticity of an uncertified copy of a public document issued by the authorities of another Member State or by EU authorities, it may require the original or a certified copy of that document to be submitted, the choice being at the discretion of the person submitting it.

If an uncertified copy of such a public document is submitted with a view to the entry of a legal fact or legal transaction in a public register, for whose correctness public financial liability exists, the authority may also require the original or a certified copy of that document to be submitted, the choice being at the discretion of the person submitting it, in cases where there is no reasonable doubt concerning the authenticity of the copy.

Or. de

Justification

If a plain copy is submitted to an authority, it may in case of doubt demand the original or a certified copy. This also applies for purposes of entries in public registers for which the State is financially liable.

Amendment 16

Proposal for a regulation

Article 6 – paragraph 1

Text proposed by the Commission

1. Authorities shall accept non-certified translations of public documents issued by the authorities of other Member States.

Amendment

1. Authorities shall accept non-certified translations of public documents issued by the authorities of other Member States or by EU authorities.

Or. de

Justification

In the few cases in which EU authorities perform direct administrative tasks, the simplification of formalities should also apply to them.

Amendment 17

Proposal for a regulation

Article 6 – paragraph 2

Text proposed by the Commission

2. Where an authority has reasonable doubt as to the correctness or quality of the translation of a public document presented to it in an individual case, it may require a certified translation of that public document. In such a case, the authority shall accept certified translations established in other Member States.

Amendment

2. Where an authority has reasonable doubt as to the correctness or quality of the translation of a public document presented to it in an individual case, it may commission a certified or official translation of that public document. If there are substantial differences between the translation and the certified or official translation commissioned by the authority, the authority may require the person submitting the document to reimburse the costs of the translation.

Or. de

Justification

Certified copies entail substantial costs to citizens. Certified translations should therefore only be required in exceptional cases. Citizens should bear the costs of the translation only if the authority's doubts have proved to be justified.

Amendment 18

Proposal for a regulation

Article 6 – paragraph 2 a (new)

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment

2a. The authorities shall accept certified translations produced in other Member States.

Or. de

Justification

Each Member State has its own system for designating sworn or official translators. Hitherto it has been the case that certified translations produced in one Member State have not generally been accepted as evidence in other Member States. This needs to be changed.

Amendment 19

Proposal for a regulation

Article 7 – paragraph 1

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment

1. Where the authorities of a Member State in which a public document or its certified copy is presented have reasonable doubt as to their authenticity, which cannot be otherwise resolved, they may submit a request for information to the relevant authorities of the Member State where these documents were issued, either by using the Internal Market Information System referred in Article 8 directly, or by contacting the central authority of their Member State.

1. Where the authorities of a Member State in which a public document or its certified or uncertified copy is presented have reasonable doubt as to the authenticity of the public document, which cannot be otherwise resolved, they may submit a request for information to the relevant authorities of the Member State where the document was issued, either by using the Internal Market Information System referred in Article 8 directly, or by contacting the central authority of their Member State.

Or. de

Justification

As it ought not to be compulsory to submit a certified copy, it should be possible to request information even where a plain copy is submitted.

Amendment 20

Proposal for a regulation Article 7 – paragraph 4

Text proposed by the Commission

4. Requests for information shall be accompanied by a scanned copy of the public document concerned or of its certified copy. The requests and any replies to those requests shall not be subject to any tax, duty or charge.

Amendment

4. Requests for information shall be accompanied by a copy of the public document concerned or of its copy. The requests and any replies to those requests shall not be subject to any tax, duty or charge.

Or. de

Justification

As it ought not to be compulsory to submit a certified copy, it should be possible to request information even where a plain copy is submitted. The word 'scanned' should also be deleted, as requests for information are in theory also possible outside the IMI.

Amendment 21

Proposal for a regulation Article 7 – paragraph 6

Text proposed by the Commission

6. If the reply of the authorities to the requests for information does not confirm the authenticity of the public document or of its certified copy, the requesting authority shall not be obliged to accept them.

Amendment

6. If the reply of the authorities to the requests for information does not confirm the authenticity of the public document, the requesting authority shall not be obliged to accept it or a copy of it.

Or. de

Justification

It should be possible to request information even where a plain copy is submitted. Here, therefore, the verification of authenticity relates to whether the photocopied document was authentic. If the photocopied document was not authentic, it is not relevant whether any certification was legally correct.

Amendment 22

Proposal for a regulation Article 9 – paragraph 3

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment

3. The designation of the one or more central authorities and their contact details shall be communicated by each Member State to the Commission in accordance with Article 20. deleted

Or. de

Justification

This paragraph can be deleted, as its substance is repeated in Article 20(1).

Amendment 23

Proposal for a regulation Article 11

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment

Article 11

Article 11

*Union multilingual standard forms concerning birth, death, marriage, registered partnership and legal status and representation of a company or other undertaking

*Union multilingual standard forms concerning civil status and legal facts and transactions

Union multilingual standard forms concerning birth, death, marriage, registered partnership and legal status and representation of a company or other undertaking are hereby established.

Union multilingual standard forms concerning civil status and various legal facts and transactions are hereby established.

Those Union multilingual standard forms shall be as set out in the Annexes.

Those Union multilingual standard forms shall be as set out in the Annexes.

Or. de

Justification

The introduction of the multilingual standard forms is endorsed, as they will make life easier for citizens. However, the list of the forms available should be extended. They are therefore not to be listed.

Amendment 24

Proposal for a regulation Article 12 – paragraph 2

Text proposed by the Commission

2. Union multilingual standard forms shall be issued upon request to citizens and companies or other undertakings entitled to receive the equivalent public documents existing in the issuing Member State and under the same conditions.

Amendment

2. Union multilingual standard forms shall be issued upon request to citizens and companies or other undertakings entitled to receive the equivalent public documents existing in the issuing Member State and under the same conditions. The fee for issuing a Union form must not exceed the fee charged for issuing the corresponding customary public document in the Member State.

Or. de

Justification

This makes it clear that the reference to 'the same conditions' particularly includes the fee for issuing the document.

Amendment 25

Proposal for a regulation Article 12 – paragraph 3

Text proposed by the Commission

3. The authorities of a Member State shall issue a Union multilingual standard form if an equivalent public document exists in that Member State. Union multilingual standard forms shall be issued regardless of the denomination of equivalent public documents in that Member State.

Amendment

3. The authorities of a Member State shall issue a Union multilingual standard form if an authority exists in that Member State which is in a position to confirm the correctness of the information in question. Union multilingual standard forms shall be issued regardless of the denomination of equivalent public documents in that Member State.

Or. de

Justification

This amendment is necessary because some EU forms ought to be created which do not necessarily exist at national level. However, there is one restriction: Member States need not issue a form if the relevant information is not recorded by the State. For example, France, the UK and Ireland have no official population register, rendering it impossible to issue residence certificates there.

Amendment 26

Proposal for a regulation

Article 12 – paragraph 3 a (new)

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment

3a. The Member States shall inform the Commission, with reference to each EU multilingual standard form, which authority is responsible for issuing it. They shall, if appropriate, inform the Commission what forms cannot be issued pursuant to paragraph 3. They shall inform the Commission as soon as any subsequent changes to that information occur.

The Commission shall make available to the public in an appropriate manner the information communicated.

Or. de

Justification

It would be helpful to members of the public if they could readily obtain access to information as to which authority issues which form in which Member State, for example via the EU website.

Amendment 27

Proposal for a regulation

Article 15 – paragraph 2

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment

2. Notwithstanding paragraph 1, Union multilingual standard forms shall not deleted

produce legal effects as regards the recognition of their content when they are presented in another Member State than the Member State where they were issued.

Or. de

Justification

This paragraph is redundant, as it means the same as Article 2(2).

Amendment 28

Proposal for a regulation
Article 15 – paragraph 3

Text proposed by the Commission

3. Union multilingual standard forms shall be accepted by the authorities of the Member States where they are presented without legalisation or similar formality.

Amendment

3. Union multilingual standard forms shall be accepted by the authorities of the Member States where they are presented without a translation.

Or. de

Justification

It is desirable to make it clear that, in the case of Union multilingual standard forms, no translation may be requested, although this is a logical consequence of the creation of the forms. The reference to legalisation and apostille is superfluous, as the matter is already dealt with by Article 4.

Amendment 29

Proposal for a regulation
Article 16 – paragraph 1

Text proposed by the Commission

1. This Regulation shall not prejudice the application of Union law which contains provisions on legalisation, similar formality, other formalities, but shall complement it.

Amendment

1. This Regulation shall not prejudice the application of Union law which contains specific provisions on legalisation, apostille or other formalities with reference to individual fields.

Or. de

Justification

The wording needs to be clarified here. It is desirable to retain any lex specialis in the field of formalities applicable to public documents.

Amendment 30

Proposal for a regulation
Article 20 – paragraph 1

Text proposed by the Commission

By ...²¹, the Member States shall communicate to the Commission the designation of one or more central authorities and their contact details referred to in Article 9(3). The Member States shall inform the Commission of any subsequent changes to that information.

²¹ OJ: please insert the date: six months before the date of application of this Regulation.

Amendment

By ...²¹, the Member States shall communicate to the Commission the designation of one or more central authorities and their contact details. The Member States shall inform the Commission of any subsequent changes to that information.

OJ : please insert the date: six months before the date of application of this Regulation.

Or. de

Justification

It is proposed that Article 9(3) be deleted, which explains the deletion of this reference.

Amendment 31

Proposal for a regulation
Article 21 – paragraph 1 – point a

Text proposed by the Commission

(a) extension of the scope of this Regulation to public documents relating to other categories than defined in Article 3 paragraph 1 points (a) – (l);

Amendment

(a) extension of the scope of this Regulation to further documents;

Or. de

Justification

The review should relate to an extension to further documents in general.

Amendment 32

Proposal for a regulation

Article 21 – paragraph 1 – point b

Text proposed by the Commission

(b) establishment of Union multilingual standard forms relating to parenthood, adoption, residence, citizenship and nationality, real estate, intellectual property rights and absence of a criminal record;

Amendment

(b) establishment of further Union multilingual standard forms;

Or. de

Justification

As some of these forms are already being proposed in this draft report, the possibility of introducing further forms should be referred to in a less restrictive manner.

Amendment 33

Proposal for a regulation

Article 21 – paragraph 1 – point c

Text proposed by the Commission

(c) in case of extension of the scope referred in point (a), establishment of Union multilingual standard forms relating to other categories of public documents.

Amendment

deleted

Or. de

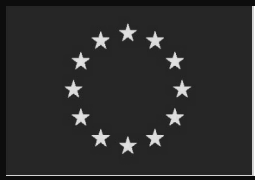

Justification

Already covered by point (b).

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

I. Introduction

This Commission proposal is extremely important to citizens of the Union.

In 2011, Eurostat estimated that some 12 million EU citizens were living in a Member State which was not their home country. Many more reside temporarily in another EU State, for example for purposes of study or work, or simply to take a holiday. All these people may potentially at some point come into contact with the administrative authorities of the country they are visiting or residing in – tourists with the health system, students with a university administration, workers with the tax and social insurance authorities, etc.

For citizens from another Member State, this contact is often more troublesome and involves extra bureaucratic obstacles. Even if they speak the language of the administration, they may not for example be familiar with local administrative practices.

Moreover, these contacts with administrations are often impeded by the fact that in many cases when people submit documents from other Member States, additional barriers need to be overcome: for example, certified translations or an apostille may be required. These formalities are not only very time-consuming but in some cases may also be expensive for individuals and businesses.

In 2011, the Commission published a strategy document listing the 20 principal criticisms of the internal market voiced by members of the public and businesses. Many of these criticisms concerned administrative formalities. It is now recognised, moreover, that problems with the cross-border application of family law, tax law, social insurance law, etc., deter many citizens from taking the plunge and moving to another Member State.

Thus reducing the additional cross-border formalities is a further important step to facilitate freedom of movement by citizens.

The rapporteur would like to observe, however, that this proposal for a regulation in no way harmonises the substantive law of the Member States in the fields concerned. It is not stipulated that a Member State must recognise the content of a document from another Member State. The aim is purely to reduce additional cross-border formalities.

The regulation would not require a Member State to recognise a family tie established under the law of another Member State. However, it would prevent the State from requiring additional formalities for the submission of the document, for example in the form of a certified translation or authentication through diplomatic channels.

II. The scope of the regulation

As mentioned above, it must be made clear that this regulation only concerns formalities and not the recognition of legal facts or relationships originating in other Member States.

The Commission proposal stipulates that the regulation is to apply only to certain public documents, mainly concerning civil status.

The rapporteur appreciates the need to define the scope of the proposal precisely, but regards its current delimitation as too restrictive. Members of the public often report that they have encountered problems with the acceptance of public documents, which, however, are not confined to documents concerning civil status, although problems are particularly common in this context.

The rapporteur has carried out a review of all the fields in which problems have occurred, and proposes that as many as possible of these fields should be brought within the scope of the regulation. They include identity documents, certificates relating to educational attainment or disability, and tax and social insurance documents, as problems arise with formalities in all these cases.

In addition, the abolition of formalities should also extend to the EU Institutions themselves, as they also issue public documents in individual cases (court decisions, competition law, civil service law, the European Schools).

III. 'Legalisation' (authentication) and apostille

'Legalisation' is a procedure to confirm that the signature and stamp on a public document from abroad are authentic. A document is first issued by the competent authority, then certified as valid by the diplomatic service of the issuing State, and finally again certified by the diplomatic authorities of the accepting State. In federal States, further certifications are required at intermediate levels. This takes some time, and can be very expensive for the individual or for a business.

The apostille procedure is a simplified alternative which was created by the Hague Convention of 5 October 1961. To describe the matter in simplified form, this cuts out the additional certification by the authorities of the accepting State. However, extra fees are still charged in the issuing State in order to obtain a stamp rendering the document valid abroad.

In the European Area of Freedom, Security and Justice, these formalities should no longer be necessary, as mutual recognition without further formalities should be the rule. The rapporteur therefore agrees that the formalities which have been required hitherto should in general be abolished in the interests of both individuals and businesses. In some fields, they have in any case already been abolished at European level by regulations relating to specific fields.

IV. Copies of documents

The administrations of the Member States have different traditions with regard to the submission of documents. In many Member States, certified copies always have to be submitted, while in others it is enough to submit plain copies; in many places, the original always has to be produced.

Overall, however, there is a trend towards abolishing the formality of the certified copy, as this is regarded as a time-consuming and costly formality in the modern world. The fee for certification can be up to €10 per page. It is also becoming increasingly difficult to achieve the original aim and purpose of certification, namely to ensure legal certainty: due to modern technologies, a certified copy is no longer a reliable safeguard against the risk of falsification of documents.

Moreover, the certification of copies is a completely unknown concept in some Member States, such as the United Kingdom. In other Member States, the formality has been abolished as part of the modernisation of administration. In Italy, for example, Decree 445/2000 introduced self-certification, meaning that individuals may themselves certify copies of public documents which directly concern themselves, thus avoiding a visit to the authorities. In France, certified copies have in general been abolished for domestic purposes. The same change was made in Luxembourg by a Law of 29 May 2009.

In many cases, the certification of copies has also been replaced with other procedures, which, however, are applied only in case of doubt, for example where fraud is suspected. These procedures include, for example, the option for an authority to insist that the original be produced, or to request assistance from another authority.

The aim of this proposal is, wherever possible, to facilitate these simplifications in cross-border situations as well. In this context, the rapporteur proposes that in general, as in the above-mentioned Member States, plain copies of a document should be accepted. In case of doubt, authorities can either seek information from the relevant authority, as referred to in Article 7 (see below), or insist that the original or a certified copy be produced. In this case, a copy certified in another Member State must also be accepted.

An exception should be made for register entries for whose accuracy the State is financially liable. This would for example be the case with entries in the land registry in some Member States. The purpose of this exception is to protect the financial interests of the State.

V. Certified translations

Most Member States have systems under which certain translators are officially recognised. When a document in a foreign language is submitted, it must be accompanied by a certified translation bearing the stamp of a sworn translator. Other translations would as a rule be rejected in such cases, even if the individual concerned would in person be capable of translating the document into the language of the country of destination. Moreover, the certified translation is valid only in the country where the sworn translator is resident; accordingly, a certified translation into French would not be accepted in France if it had been produced in Belgium.

This often very costly formality must be abolished. It is worth noting that, for example, the Services Directive already stipulates that authorities are not permitted to require businesses to submit certified translations.

The rapporteur therefore proposes that, as a general rule, uncertified translations should be accepted. In case of doubt, it should be possible for an official or certified translation to be made. In order not to place members of the public under blanket suspicion, and so as to avoid a proliferation of presumed 'cases of doubt', the authority should initially bear the translation costs. Here the authority would be free, depending on the Member State, to order an official translation or instead to commission a sworn translator to do the job. If the doubts prove justified, the authority should be able to recover the costs from the individual concerned.

In addition, certified copies produced in one Member State should be valid in all other Member States; this merely applies the principle of mutual trust which applies in the European Area of Freedom, Security and Justice.

VI. Administrative cooperation

In order to rule out attempted fraud, the Commission proposes using the Internal Market Information system (IMI) for mutual assistance purposes. This system, which is already used in the economic sphere, permits an authority in an accepting Member State to ask the authorities of the issuing Member State for assistance. This enables the authority which has issued the document to confirm to the accepting authority the authenticity and evidentiary value of the document.

The rapporteur endorses this system, as it avoids placing the additional burden of proof on the individual citizen. Moreover, the automated mutual assistance system already exists, so that only minimal costs will be involved in adapting the system.

In order to facilitate contact between lower-tier authorities, there ought to be a central authority in each Member State which will forward requests from foreign authorities.

VII. European Union multilingual standard forms

One of the cornerstones of the proposal is the creation of EU multilingual standard forms. Issuing multilingual standard forms is intended simply to avoid the problem of translation along similar lines to what is already customarily being done with E-forms for social insurance purposes.

An individual who is required to produce evidence of certain legal facts after moving to another Member State, for example of his date of birth or his marriage, would then obtain from his home authority, instead of a normal extract from the relevant register, a multilingual form containing all the relevant information in multiple languages. The form would then be valid in the new Member State without requiring translation.

The rapporteur proposes that this system be extended to cover cases for which no customary national document exists. Divorce rulings are a case in point: substantial costs are often incurred in obtaining certified translations, as in many Member States the only way of proving a divorce is by producing a copy of the court's decision. And this is despite the fact that in general only the fact of the divorce is of interest, not the circumstances described in the court's decision.

An EU standard form ought therefore also to be created for divorces, although national equivalents may not necessarily exist. The authority which has the power to issue copies of the decision is also in a position to confirm the legal fact of the divorce, which it can do in a way which will be far simpler and cheaper for the individuals concerned.

Similar considerations apply to educational qualifications for students and workers. A simple confirmation of the level and field of education can also be provided by means of an EU multilingual standard form.

Altogether, the rapporteur proposes ten additional EU multilingual standard forms in order to cover the most common problematic circumstances as far as possible: name, descent, adoption, divorce, dissolution of a registered partnership, nationality, absence of a criminal record, residence, education and disability.

Here too it is important to stress that the EU standard forms merely obviate the customary formalities and need for translations. They by no means result in a requirement to recognise the substance of the forms (particularly in the field of family law).

VIII. Concluding assessment

All in all, the proposal is to be regarded as constituting considerable progress for the benefit of the citizen. It does away with excessive bureaucracy and lends meaning to the principle of mutual trust. The fees payable by individuals will be reduced and at the same time a mutual assistance system will be created which could more effectively prevent attempted fraud from succeeding. The introduction of the EU multilingual standard forms will make life easier for the individual and for businesses operating across borders, as well as help reduce red tape.
