(4) The Rights and Values programme (the 'Programme') should allow developing synergies to tackle the challenges that are common to the promotion and protection of values and to reach a critical dimension to have concrete results in the field. To be effective, the Programme should take into account the specific nature of the different policies, their different target groups and their particular needs through tailor-made approaches.

Recital 4 a (new)

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment

(4a) Full respect and promotion of the rule of law and democracy is fundamental to building citizens' trust in the Union. Respect for the rule of law within the Union is a prerequisite for the protection of fundamental rights, as well as for upholding all rights and obligations enshrined in the Treaties. The way in which the rule of law is implemented in the Member States plays a vital role in ensuring mutual trust among Member States and their legal systems. The Programme should therefore promote and safeguard fundamental rights, democracy and the rule of law at local, regional, national and transnational levels.

Recital 5

Text proposed by the Commission

(5) In order to bring the European Union closer to its citizens, a variety of actions and coordinated efforts are necessary. Bringing together citizens in town-twinning projects or networks of towns and supporting civil society organisations in the areas covered by the programme will contribute to increase citizens' engagement in society and ultimately their involvement in the democratic life of the Union. At the same time supporting activities promoting mutual understanding, diversity, dialogue and respect for others fosters a sense of belonging and a European identity, based on a shared understanding of European values, culture, history and heritage. The promotion of a greater sense of belonging to the Union and of Union values is particularly important amongst citizens of the EU outermost regions due to their remoteness and distance from continental Europe.

Text proposed by the Commission

(18) Independent human rights bodies and civil society organisations play an essential role in promoting, safeguarding and raising awareness of the Union's common values under Article 2 TEU, and in contributing to the effective enjoyment of rights under Union law, including the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the EU. As reflected in the European Parliament Resolution of 18 April 2018, adequate financial support is key to the development of a conducive and sustainable environment for civil society organisations to strengthen their role and perform their functions independently and effectively. Complementing efforts at national level, EU funding should therefore contribute to support, empower and build the capacity of independent civil society organisations active in the promotion of human rights whose activities help the strategic enforcement of rights under EU law and the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the EU, including through advocacy and watchdog activities, as well as to promote, safeguard and raise awareness of the Union's common values at national level.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

On the 30th of May 2018, the European Commission published its proposal for a Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council establishing the Rights and Values programme as part of the Multiannual Financial Framework (MFF) 2021-2027. The Rights and Values Programme brings together the 2014-2020 programmes “Rights, Equality and Citizenship” and “Europe for Citizens”. The proposal aims at protecting and promoting common European rights and values as enshrined in the EU Treaties and Charter of Fundamental Rights, including by supporting civil society organisations, in order to sustain open, democratic, rights-based, equal and inclusive societies. While the rapporteur welcomes the Commission’s intention to ensure the continuation of existing programmes as they play a key role in promoting and implementing EU rights and values, the proposal falls short in addressing some of the raising challenges to common European values and rights the Union is currently facing.

In the European Parliament resolution of 19 April 2018 on the need to establish a European Values Instrument to support civil society organisations which promote fundamental values within the European Union at local and national level, the European Parliament urged the Commission to propose a European Values Instrument as part of the MFF 2021-2027, designed to provide financial support for civil society on local and national level to counter the backlash against democracy, rule of law and fundamental rights in the EU. The instrument would be complementary to already existing programmes and have a funding level corresponding to EUs spending on value-promotion in third countries.

Against this background, the rapporteur proposes several changes in her draft report in order to reflect these concerns and make the Programme more effective in view of protecting and promoting these values within the Union.

Scope

In order to align the programme objectives with the shared values laid down in Article 2 TEU, on which the European Union is founded, the rapporteur proposes to expand the scope of the proposal by referring specifically to democracy, the rule of law and fundamental rights as enshrined in Article 2 TEU in the general objective of the Programme. In times when democracy and rule of law in Europe are facing challenges, the rapporteur considers that there is an urgent need for this instrument to be adequately funded and easily accessible for supporting citizens engaged in promoting these most endangered European values. Respect for the rule of law within the Union is a prerequisite for the protection of fundamental rights, as well as for upholding all rights and obligations deriving from the Treaties. The way in which the rule of law is implemented in the Member States plays a key role in ensuring mutual trust among Member States and in their legal systems.

Therefore, the rapporteur suggests adding a new specific objective (the Union values strand) referring to democracy, fundamental rights and the rule of law that will fund corresponding actions at local, regional, national and transnational levels.

Within the framework of this new specific objective the rapporteur considers that the programme should focus on protecting and promoting democracy and the rule of law, including ensuring the independence of the judiciary, effective judicial protection by independent courts, including of fundamental rights, transparency and non-arbitrariness by public authorities and law enforcement, providing support for independent human rights defenders and civil society organisations undertaking monitoring compliance with the rule of law, whistleblower defence and support initiatives that promote transparency, accountability, integrity and absence of corruption.

As respect and protection of fundamental rights represents the basis of a democratic society, the rapporteur considers that specific attention should be given also to strengthening freedom of expression, peaceful assembly or association, media freedom and pluralism of the media, academic freedom, freedom of religion or belief and the right to privacy and family life.

Against this background, the rapporteur welcomes equally the emphasis put on the principle of equality and non-discrimination, as well on the need to combat all forms of violence in Article 3 and 5 of the proposal. Article 21(1) of the Charter of Fundamental Rights clearly prohibits any discrimination based on ground such as sex, race, colour, ethnic or social origin, genetic features, languages or membership of a national minority. According to the second European Union Minorities and Discrimination Survey of the European Union agency for Fundamental Rights, violence, harassment, threats and xenophobic speech targeting especially LGBTBI people, people belonging to ethnic or religious minorities, as well as asylum seekers and migrants remained pervasive and grave across the European Union in 2017.

Within the general objective of protecting and promoting democracy and the rule of law, the rapporteur suggests that the Daphne strand promotes greater access to justice and to mechanisms for reporting crime for all victims of violence. (This includes journalists and other media actors who face multiple attacks, threats and pressures from state and non-state actors across the EU).

The rapporteur proposes also that certain activities eligible for funding in Annex I should be brought into an article in the proposal text to facilitate the understanding and use of the Programme. Several changes are proposed to the activities list in order to clarify some of the eligible activities under the new strand on Union values as well as to highlight that advocacy, capacity building and awareness raising activities are also supported via this Programme.

Budget

Given the changed political landscape in the Union and raising challenges to European values that EU is currently facing, the rapporteur considers that the proposed seven-year budget of 642 million EUR (divided into 409 million EUR for the “Equality and Rights” and 233 million EUR for the “Citizens engagement and participation” strand) is insufficient and cannot respond to the needs of EU citizens to strengthen and protect EU values, as part of pluralist, democratic, open and inclusive society.

Having regard to the repeated calls by civil society organisations for an increase in the budget of existing programmes as well as the extended scope proposed, including the new strand dedicated to Union values, the rapporteur is putting forward the following budget allocation based on the Parliament resolution from April 2018; in total 1.974.457 million EUR in current prices, divided as follows, 1 billion EUR for the new Union values strand, 474,457 million EUR for the “Equality and Rights” and 500 million EUR for “Citizens engagement and participation” strand. These amounts represent a significant increase in comparison with the proposed budget by the Commission, nonetheless, the rapporteur is of the opinion that a substantial increase is both crucial and necessary in order to respond effectively to today's challenges to European values.

In order to ensure that civil society originations can properly benefit from the Programme funding, the rapporteur also proposes that at least 40% of the funding within each objective shall be earmarked for non-government organisations.

The rapporteur considers that mechanisms to ensure a link between Union funding policies and the values of the Union should be further refined, allowing the Commission to make a proposal to the Council to transfer resources allocated to a Member State under shared management to the Programme where that Member State is subject to procedures related to the Union values. Specific provisions have been proposed by the rapporteur as regards a limited list of situations when resources allocated to a Member State under shared management may be transferred to the Programme, the procedure to be followed and as regards rights of scrutiny of the European Parliament.

Access to funding

The rapporteur considers that more support should be given to grassroots projects promoting European values as defined in Article 2 of the EU Treaty - particularly democratic standards, rule of law and fundamental rights – as prerequisite for an open and inclusive society. This is in line with the opinion also expressed by FRA in its study on Challenges facing civil society organisations working on human rights in the EU, published in January 2018 where it is clearly mentioned that "EU institutions and Member States are encouraged to ensure that funding is made available for CSOs working on the protection and promotion of the EU's foundational values of fundamental rights, democracy and the rule of law; including for small grassroots organisations. Such funding should cover, as appropriate, the variety of activities of CSOs such as service provision, watchdog activities, advocacy, litigation, campaigning, human rights and civic education and awareness raising."

The draft report as proposed by the rapporteur responds to the general goal that the EU should provide targeted financial support to CSOs which are active at local, regional and national level in promoting and protecting the values on which the EU is founded. Consequently, specific amendments have been put forward in order to underline the attention given throughout the Programme to organisations operating on local, regional and national level. While actions on transnational level plays an important role, many challenges to European values have local origins and needs to be addresses both at local and European level.

Simplification of procedures and easier access to funding is also one of the main objectives of the rapporteur for this programme. Therefore, the text includes references to simplified cost options, fast and flexible grant-making procedures and user-friendly applications such as multiannual operating grants, lump sums, flat rates, unit costs, cascading grants and co-funding in kind. Equally the rapporteur proposes that reporting procedures should be operationalised and further strengthened as part of the implementation of this Programme The rapporteur also believes that the participation of civil society organisations is crucial to the planning, implementation and evaluation of the Programme. Hence, the Commission should ensure a regular dialogue with the beneficiaries of the Programme and other relevant stakeholders through the establishment of a Civil Dialogue Group.

Input from stakeholders

In preparation of her draft, the rapporteur has collected input from a number of NGO representatives through organised roundtable discussions in Brussels and Stockholm, as well as bilateral meetings on several occasions. The rapporteur has also advised with representatives of other European agencies and stakeholders. The full list can be found in the annex.
