

The Week Ahead 09 – 15 October 2017

Agenda

Committee meetings, Brussels

EU asylum system/resettlement of refugees. Plans to provide a safe and clear passage to the EU for people in need of international protection will be voted on in the Civil Liberties Committee. The proposal provides for common rules on the admission and transfer of non-EU nationals who have asked for protection in one of the Member States. It aims to prevent thousands more from drowning in the Mediterranean. (Thursday)

Energy performance of buildings. EU buildings will have to be highly energy-efficient and decarbonised by 2050, according to a draft law to be voted on in the Industry Committee. Buildings are the largest energy consumer in Europe, absorbing 40% of energy. (Wednesday)

“Monsanto papers”/Glyphosate. Environment and Agriculture committees will hold a public hearing on conducting risk assessments on glyphosate, in the light of press reports claiming that Monsanto employees tried to influence this process. Glyphosate is the most commonly used herbicide in the EU, but concerns have been raised over whether it is carcinogenic. (Wednesday)

“Dual-quality” food. Ways to better enforce EU food and consumer rules, to avoid people in some parts of Europe being sold food products of a lower quality, will be discussed in the Internal Market Committee with the Commission. The issue concerns food marketed under the same brand and packaging across several EU countries, but with a different composition. (Wednesday)

2017 Sakharov Prize short list. Foreign Affairs and Development committees vote on a shortlist of three finalists for the EP award for Freedom of Thought. Nominees are Asia Bibi (Pakistan), Aura Lolita Chavez Ixcaquic (Guatemala), Selahattin Demirtaş and Figen Yükksekdağ (Turkey), Democratic Opposition in Venezuela, Dawit Isaak (Swedish-Eritrean) and Pierre Claver Mbonimpa (Burundi). (Tuesday)

Citizen's Prize. 49 people and organisations from 26 Member States will receive this year's European Citizen's Prize at an award ceremony in Brussels on Wednesday. Since 2008 the Parliament has awarded the Citizen's Prize every year to projects and initiatives that facilitate cross-border cooperation or promote mutual understanding within the EU. (Wednesday)

President's diary. EP President Antonio Tajani will meet Lithuania's Seimas Speaker Viktoras Pranckietis as well as Serbia's Prime Minister Ana Brnabić, the latter followed by a press point, on Wednesday. On Thursday, President Tajani will exchange views with Mali's Prime Minister Abdoulaye Idrissa Maïga and join the ceremony commemorating 40 years since the European Court of Auditors was set up, in Luxembourg. Finally, to prepare the African Union- EU summit in Abidjan and Parliament's High Level Conference on Africa (22 November), President Tajani will go to Morocco on Friday and Saturday to meet His Majesty, King Mohammed the Sixth, the Prime Minister, and both Speakers of the

The report will assess how the mechanism set up by the Directive 2011/99/EU was applied in the Member States concerned.

The EPO Directive was initiated by a group of twelve states and came into force in January 2011. This judicial co-operation tool is based on the principle of mutual recognition, which means that protection orders issued in one Member State have to be recognised and enforced in another Member State. One of the main challenges in the application of this instrument is to ensure that the protection of victims is not hampered by the diversity of national measures.
