actual causes of climate change, destabilisation of states and regional conflicts, i.e. the capitalist mode of production, the exploitation of the Global South and the neo-liberal economic and trade policy; considers that a responsible position for the EU to adopt towards the world would be to redirect the budgets currently earmarked for military expenditure and the EDA towards covering the needs of the peoples of the EU, the developing countries and less privileged countries fuelled by the global economic crisis and committing itself to nuclear disarmament;
