MOTION FOR A EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT RESOLUTION

- having regard to its resolution of 6 May 2010 on the draft protocol amending Protocol (No 36) on transitional provisions concerning the composition of the European Parliament for the rest of the 2009-2014 parliamentary term: the European Parliament's opinion (Article 48(3) of the EU Treaty)<sup>4</sup>,
- having regard to Article 39 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union,
- having regard to Articles 9, 10, 14(2) and 48(2), (3) and (4), and 51 of the Treaty on European Union (TEU) and to Articles 22, 223, 225 and 343 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union (TFEU), and to Article 3 of Protocol (No 2) on the application of the principles of subsidiarity and proportionality,
- having regard to Protocol (No 7) on the Privileges and Immunities of the European Union,

- having regard to Rules 41, 48(3), 70, 74a and 175 of its Rules of Procedure,

- having regard to the report of the Committee on Constitutional Affairs (A7-0176/2011),
- having regard to the second report of the Committee on Constitutional Affairs (A7-0000/2011),

Whereas:

- A. Parliament has the right to initiate the reform of its own electoral procedure, and to give its consent thereto,
- B. Parliament has the right to initiate a change in its own composition, and to give its consent thereto,
- C. Parliament has the right to initiate a revision of the Treaties,
- D. Parliament has been directly elected every five years since 1979 and has seen its powers and influence increase throughout this period, most notably as a result of the entry into force of the Treaty of Lisbon,
- E. the Lisbon Treaty changed the mandate of Members of the European Parliament, making them direct representatives of the Union's citizens<sup>1</sup>,
- F. even without agreement on a uniform electoral procedure, there has been a gradual convergence of electoral systems over this period, notably with the universal adoption of proportional representation in 1999, the formal establishment of political parties at EU level<sup>2</sup> and the abolition of the dual mandate<sup>3</sup>,
- G. the concept of European Union citizenship, formally introduced into the constitutional order by the Treaty of Maastricht in 1993, included the right to participate under certain conditions in European and municipal elections in Member States other than one's own, and the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, which now has binding legal force under the terms of the Lisbon Treaty, has reinforced that right and other civic rights,
- H. popular recognition of Parliament's democratic function remains limited, political parties at European level are still in the early stages of development, electoral campaigning remains more national than European, and media reporting of Parliament's proceedings is irregular,
- I. overall turnout in the elections to Parliament has fallen steadily from 63 per cent in 1979 to 43 per cent in 2009,
- J. the number of Union citizens resident in Member States other than their own who vote in elections to the European Parliament is low, and the number who stand for election is negligible; residency qualifications for the franchise vary among States, as does the time after which their own nationals resident elsewhere in the EU are deprived of the right to vote in their original home State; moreover, the exchange of information between Member States on nationals of other Member States who have been entered on electoral rolls or have stood as a candidate is not efficient,

- K. according to the case-law of the Court of Justice, while States enjoy substantial discretion in defining who can vote in European parliamentary elections, they are nevertheless bound to respect the general principles of Union law and are precluded from treating different categories of Union citizens who are in the same circumstances in a way that discriminates between them<sup>1</sup>; likewise, while it is for each State to lay down its own conditions for the acquisition and loss of nationality, it must at the same time have regard to the status of citizenship of the Union<sup>2</sup>,
- L. current proposals of the Commission to facilitate electoral participation by Union citizens resident in Member States other than their own are stalled in the Council<sup>3</sup>,
- M. the number of women MEPs now stands at 35 per cent; efforts should be made to reduce further the gender imbalance in Parliament, especially in certain States,
- N. Parliament has urged the Council to bring forward the date of the election to May so that it can better organise itself to expedite the election of the new Commission President and avoid the beginning of the summer vacation in several States<sup>4</sup>,
- O. Parliament is empowered and obliged by the Lisbon Treaty to initiate a decision to redistribute seats among States within the constraints of threshold, ceiling and overall size, while respecting the principle of degressive proportionality; Parliament has previously resolved to correct historical inequalities in seat distribution and to adapt its composition on a regular basis in order to reflect changes in the demography and membership of the Union<sup>5</sup>; moreover, it considers it important to give expression in Parliament's composition to plurality between parties and solidarity among States,
- P. the accession of Croatia will in any case trigger a reapportionment of seats in the European Parliament at the next elections in 2014,
- Q. Parliament lacks an autonomous system for regulating the legal privileges and immunities of its Members; the Council has previously agreed to examine the request of Parliament to revise the 1965 Protocol on Privileges and Immunities once the Members' Statute was adopted<sup>1</sup>,

- R. in spite of the fact that the Council had previously agreed to keep the 1976 Act under review, the last formal review of electoral procedure by Parliament was initiated as long ago as 1998<sup>2</sup>,
  - S. Parliament's electoral procedure must uphold the practice of free, fair and secret elections, achieve overall proportionality of representation, and be durable and comprehensible,
  - T. Parliament's electoral system is a compromise between the democratic principle of equality ('one man one vote') and the international law principle of equality among states, and the TEU lays down the principle of the equality of Union citizens while forbidding discrimination on the grounds of nationality,
  - U. reform of the electoral procedure must also respect the principles of subsidiarity and proportionality and should not seek to impose uniformity for its own sake,
  - V. Parliament has previously resolved to study the possibility of electing some MEPs on pan-European lists, considering that this would impart a genuine European dimension to the campaign, particularly by entrusting a central role to European political parties<sup>3</sup>,
  - W. electoral equality must remain the overriding principle if pan-European lists are introduced; the status of Members in Parliament should therefore remain equal regardless of whether they are elected from pan-European, national or regional lists,
  - X. the TEU provides that 'political parties at European level contribute to forming European political awareness and to expressing the will of citizens of the Union'<sup>4</sup>, and to this end Parliament has called on the Commission, in its resolution of 6 April 2011 on the application of Regulation (EC) No 2004/2003 on the regulations governing political parties at European level and the rules regarding their funding<sup>5</sup>, to initiate legislation for a common EU status for European political parties and foundations,
1. Decides to reform its electoral procedure with the aim of enhancing the legitimacy and efficacy of Parliament by strengthening the European democratic dimension and by providing for a fairer distribution of seats among the States in accordance with the Treaties;
  2. Proposes that 25 MEPs be elected by a single constituency formed of the whole territory of the European Union; pan-European lists would be composed of candidates drawn from at least one third of the States, and may ensure an adequate gender representation; each elector would be enabled to cast one vote for the EU-wide list in addition to their vote for the national or regional list: and seats would be allocated without a minimum threshold in accordance with the D'Hondt method; further, proposes that an electoral authority be established at EU level in order to regulate the conduct and to verify the result of the election taking place from the pan-European list;

3. Notes the need to keep the cost of Parliament and its elections under review, and calls for these reforms to be implemented to a great extent within the present budgetary perspective<sup>1</sup>;
4. (i) Determines that Parliament will initiate a proposal for a decision establishing the redistribution of the 751 seats among States, if justified objectively by figures established by Eurostat before every election; this decision should be adopted before the end of the fourth calendar year of the parliamentary term,

(ii) Proposes to enter into a dialogue with the European Council to explore the possibility of reaching agreement on a durable and transparent mathematical formula for the apportionment of seats in Parliament respecting the criteria laid down in the Treaties and the principles of plurality between political parties and solidarity among States;
5. Calls on the Commission to bring forward a proposal for a regulation to improve the consistency and comparability of population data provided by the States;
6. Determines to bring forward the timing of the European elections from June to May;
7. Calls on States and political parties to promote the better representation of women and minority candidates; considers it important for the legitimacy of the Union that Parliament's composition reflects the diversity of Europe's peoples;
8. Emphasises the importance of ensuring that political parties adhere to democratic principles in the selection of candidates at both pan-European and national levels;
9. Calls on the Council, the Commission and States to intensify efforts to help EU citizens resident in a State other than their own to participate in the European elections in their country of residence; in this context, requests the Commission to submit a new proposal for the revision of Directive 93/109/EC ;
10. Reiterates its long-standing request that the 1965 Protocol on Privileges and Immunities be amended with a view to establishing a uniform supranational regime for Members of the European Parliament<sup>2</sup>, and submits to the Council the amendments contained in Annex II;

<sup>2</sup> European Parliament resolution of 6 July 2006 on modification of the Protocol on Privileges and Immunities (OJ C 303 E, 13.12.2006, p. 830), in which Parliament confirmed its intention to use the Members' Statute as a partial basis for the proposed revision (European Parliament decision of 3 June 2003 on the adoption of a Statute for Members of the European Parliament (OJ C 68 E, 18.3.2004, p. 115)).

11. (i) Calls for the opening of a dialogue with the Council, with the participation of the Commission, on the issues raised in this resolution and on any other matter germane to the electoral procedure of the Parliament<sup>1</sup>; notes the need to reach consensus in particular on the timing of the reforms, the overall size of the Parliament and seat apportionment within it (including a legal definition of degressive proportionality), and the voting system to be used for the pan-European constituency,
  - (ii) Instructs its President, in cooperation with the chairman of the Committee on Constitutional Affairs, the rapporteur and the representatives of the political groups appointed by the Conference of Presidents, to initiate that dialogue with the Council;
12. Instructs its President to forward this resolution to the European Council, the Council, the Commission and the parliaments and governments of the Member States.

It differs from the consolidated version produced by the Publications Office of the European Union (CONSLEG. 1976X1008-23/09/2002) on two points: it incorporates an indent to Article 7(1) ‘– member of the Committee of the Regions’ resulting from Article 5 of the Treaty of Amsterdam (OJ C 340, 10.11.1997) and is renumbered in accordance with Article 2(1) of Decision 2002/772/EC, Euratom.

– members of the United Kingdom Parliament who are also members of the European Parliament during the five-year term preceding election to the European Parliament in 2004 may have a dual mandate until the 2009 European Parliament elections, when the first subparagraph of this paragraph shall apply.

Article 8

Subject to the provisions of this Act, the electoral procedure shall be governed in each Member State by its national provisions.

These national provisions, which may if appropriate take account of the specific situation in the Member States, shall not affect the essentially proportional nature of the voting system.

Article 9

No one may vote more than once in any election of members of the European Parliament.

Article 10

1. Elections to the European Parliament shall be held on the date and at the times fixed by each Member State; for all Member States this date shall fall within the same period starting on a Thursday morning and ending on the following Sunday.

Article 13

1. A seat shall fall vacant when the mandate of a member of the European Parliament ends as a result of resignation, death or withdrawal of the mandate.

2. Subject to the other provisions of this Act, each Member State shall lay down appropriate procedures for filling any seat which falls vacant during the five-year term of office referred to in Article 5 for the remainder of that period.

3. Where the law of a Member State makes explicit provision for the withdrawal of the mandate of a member of the European Parliament, that mandate shall end pursuant to those legal provisions. The competent national authorities shall inform the European Parliament thereof.

4. Where a seat falls vacant as a result of resignation or death, the President of the European Parliament shall immediately inform the competent authorities of the Member State concerned thereof.

Article 14

Should it appear necessary to adopt measures to implement this Act, the Council, acting unanimously on a proposal from the European Parliament after consulting the Commission, shall adopt such measures after endeavouring to reach agreement with the European Parliament in a conciliation committee consisting of the Council and representatives of the European Parliament.

Article 15

This Act is drawn up in the Danish, Dutch, English, Finnish, French, German, Greek, Irish, Italian, Portuguese, Spanish and Swedish languages, all the texts being equally authentic.

Annexes I and II shall form an integral part of this Act.

Article 16
