8.4 Case-law of interest for the ENVI Committee

• Case C-441/17, Commission v. Poland

The case concerns a plan of active management operations authorised by the Polish Minister because of the constant spread of the spruce bark beetle on the Białowieża forest, a Natura 2000 site and 'special protection area' under the Birds Directive. In particular, in 2016 the Polish Minister authorised, for the period until 2021, almost a tripling of harvesting of wood in the Białowieża forest district alone, and the carrying out of active forest management operations such as sanitary pruning, reforestation and restoration, in areas where any intervention was previously excluded.

On 20 February 2018, Advocate General Yves Bot delivered his opinion proposing that the Court should rule that Poland has failed to fulfil its obligation under the Habitats and Birds Directives to ensure that those forest management measures would not adversely affect the integrity of the Białowieża site. In the second place, the Advocate General states that the obligation to undergo an appropriate assessment of the plan's implications on the site, as well as the precautionary principle have been disregarded.
