Dominique Bilde

Motion for a resolution
Recital E a (new)

Motion for a resolution

Amendment

Ea. whereas, however, according to a Cedefop publication dated June 2018, growth growth projections point to a sharp rise in demand for ‘lower-skilled jobs’, particularly in the sales, security and cleaning sectors and catering and care professions, and a stable number of jobs in certain fields, including person-centred services such as hospitality; whereas in spite of the rapid progress made in digital technologies, which should also affect these sectors and in particular the health sector, there will also be a need to meet the increased demand in person-based and manual occupations, which require a very moderate level of digital skills, in particular by means of a suitable policy to steer people towards apprenticeship;

Fa. whereas, however, gaps in digital knowledge are often associated with general learning gaps, and the number of pupils with difficulties in mathematics and science in particular has increased between the 2012 and 2015 PISA assessments in most Member States, reaching about 22% for mathematics, and even approximately 40% in Bulgaria, Romania and Cyprus in 2015;

Or. fr

Amendment 19
Dominique Bilde

Motion for a resolution
Recital F b (new)

Motion for a resolution

Amendment

Fb. whereas 40% of employers in the European Union are finding it difficult to recruit a workforce with the proper qualifications, and whereas this high proportion can be partly attributed to a lack of basic skills in the European workforce, given that, according to the OECD (2012) PIAAC study, among the working-age population of the European Union (16 to 65), only 43% had a medium or high level of reading and comprehension (literacy), a number that is significantly lower than that of the OECD (49%), and that, in addition, one in five Europeans had insufficient skills in reading and comprehension (literacy) and one in four in mathematics;

Or. fr

Amendment 20
Dominique Bilde

Motion for a resolution
Recital F c (new)

Motion for a resolution

Amendment

Fc. whereas in spite of the predominance of technology in the daily life of the ‘Y’ generation, born after 1980, a study by the Educational Testing Services of the prestigious US-based University of Princeton noted that this generation showed the poorest level of all age groups in the United States in the basic skills - reading and comprehension (literacy), basic mathematics and problem-solving in a technology-rich environment - which shows that there is no causal link between the omnipresence of digital technologies and the acquisition of a high level of digital skills; whereas, in the same study, some European countries had the same or lower scores than the US for Generation Y skills in reading and comprehension (Italy and Spain) and problem-solving in a technological environment (Slovakia, Ireland and Poland);
