□ Background

- Access to basic banking services is essential in modern society, especially as society moves toward paperless environment
- But, estimate that more than 30 million over 18 in the EU do not have access to a bank account

□ Objectives

- Current state of play re access to banking services
- Overview of the expected benefits of provision of basic bank account

Current state of access to banking services

Study objectives

- ❑ Legal framework governing access to basic banking services varies markedly across Europe

Current state of access to banking services

- ❑ In 12 MS, some type of requirements for banks to provide some form of account – BE, DE, FR, FI, DK, IE, LU, NL, SL, SW

Current state of access to banking services

EC recommendation on access to basic payment account

Basic banking services and benefits

Recommendations

❑ Legislation/regulation

- Belgium, France, Finland and Denmark: legislation providing for access to a bank account (basic or regular)
- Sweden: legislated right to a deposit account (does not provide for electronic payment)
- Netherlands: right to a bank account - agreement between the banks and the authorities

❑ Voluntary codes

- Germany, Ireland, Luxembourg and Slovenia: voluntary codes foresee that banks open accounts for anybody fulfilling standard requirements concerning proof of identity and address, and compliance with anti-money laundering rules
- UK: code foresees offer of a special basic bank account to those customers who cannot obtain a regular bank account.
- Italy: banking code stipulates the provision of a payment account

EC Recommendation on access to basic payment account

Basic banking services and benefits

Recommendations

- ❑ Reason: market failure
- ❑ Principle: all consumers, who are legal residents within the EU should be able to open and use a basic bank account in any Member State, if they do not already have an account in that State
- ❑ Two objectives: financial inclusion + Single Market
- ❑ Implementation: flexibility to MS subject to:
 - condition that basic bank account be free or cost be reasonable
 - awareness raising obligation
- ❑ Effectiveness: mainly a strong signal

EC recommendation
on access to basic
payment account

Basic banking
services and benefits

Recommendations

- ❑ Ideally, the following services should be provided by a basic bank account
 - ability to open, operate and close a payment account
 - ability for money to be placed in and withdrawn from a payment account
 - ability to allow the execution of payment transactions by direct debit, a payment card or credit transfers
- ❑ Services should not be tied to the purchase of other services or products such as insurance from the institution offering the basic bank account
- ❑ An overdraft facility should not be provided with this type of account

EC recommendation
on access to basic
payment account

Basic banking
services and benefits

Recommendations

- ❑ EC Recommendation consistent with ideal basic bank account (Section III)
 - Services enabling all the operations required for the opening, operating and closing of a payment account
 - Services enabling money to be placed on a payment account
 - Services enabling cash withdrawals from a payment account
 - Execution of payment transactions, including transfers of funds in and out of a payment account with the consumer's payment service provider or with another service provider following:
 - the execution of direct debits
 - the execution of payment transactions through a payment card that does not allow the execution of payment transactions that would exceed the current balance of the payment account
 - the execution of credit transfers

Basic banking services and benefits

Recommendations

- ❑ Benefits for a) financially excluded individuals, b) mobile individuals, c) cross-border trade and e-commerce, d) society

- ❑ Immediate benefits for unbanked individuals
 - The ability to take jobs or rent property where a bank account is required
 - Access to money transmission services –welfare payments,...
 - Lower transaction costs on payments and receipts
 - Access to discounts for electronic payment
 - Quicker access to funds
 - Increased security through lower level of cash transactions
 - Increased choice of goods and services through the internet
 - Reduced sense of financial exclusion

EC recommendation on access to basic payment account

Basic banking services and benefits

Recommendations

- Immediate benefits for mobile individuals - will find it easier to operate in other Member States due to the improved ease of opening bank accounts in other Member States – >will enhance mobility
 - Mobile consumers in general less likely than financially excluded consumers to be affected by psychological, cultural or educational factors.
 - Instead, mobile consumers face problems on the supply side
 - Proof of identity can be a problem for immigrants who may not have the standard documents required, particularly in countries that do not use a national ID card.
 - Legal requirements relating to fraud being interpreted by some banks in such a way that allows them to refuse service to non-residents who are seen by the bank as commercially unattractive customers.
 - 2011 Eurobarometer study – one potential obstacle faced by citizens in Internal market is opening a bank account in a different MS

EC recommendation on access to basic payment account

Basic banking services and benefits

Recommendations

- ❑ Immediate benefits for cross-border trade and e-commerce
 - 12% of those who did not use the internet to order goods or services online in the 12-month period preceding a recent survey by Eurostat gave the lack of a payment card as a reason
 - Availability of payment cards and electronic money transfer channels are crucial factors underpinning e-commerce, particularly as they offer to the consumer protection and credibility
 - E-commerce is the principal channel through which consumers can engage in cross-border trade
 - Without banking access, consumers cannot fully benefit from the full range of products offered within the Single Market and cannot reap the benefits of online purchasing

EC recommendation on access to basic payment account

Basic banking services and benefits

Recommendations

- ❑ Proposed service characteristics of the basic bank account set out in EC Recommendation are consistent with the views of most stakeholders
- ❑ They would clearly benefit “unbanked” individuals and cross-border mobile individuals
- ❑ However, no guarantee that the Recommendation will be followed up by actual change at the M.S. level
- ❑ Strongly recommend that, in one or two years time, in-depth review of the situation across M. S. be undertaken in order to identify whether desired effect is achieved
- ❑ If no progress, consideration be given to a Directive which ensures the introduction of legislation relating to access to basic banking services across the EU
 - Should take account of fact that the specific needs of the “unbanked” may vary across Member States depending on the payment practices and usages in the country – Minimum Harmonisation Directive
