

Carlos Romão - Portuguese nationality, civil servant since 1984

---

Graduate in Forestry and Wildlife Management by the University of Lisbon

40 years of professional activity in the field of nature conservation, wildlife management, protected areas, and other biodiversity issues, including 32 years of experience in EU, Pan-European and international environmental policy:

- Technical officer and head at the Portuguese agency for nature protection
- Administrator at the DG Environment of the European Commission in Brussels (BE)
- Director of the European Topic Centre on Biological Diversity in Paris (FR)
- Project manager and expert at the European Environment Agency in Copenhagen (DK), since 2009

Main expertise in developing reporting formats and guidelines for reporting of the Birds and the Habitats Directive, analysis and assessments relevant for policy making and evaluation, and review of legal instruments, and production of reports on the state of nature in the EU.