(The type of procedure depends on the legal basis proposed by the draft act.)

Amendments to a draft act

In amendments by Parliament, amendments to draft acts are highlighted in bold italics. Highlighting in normal italics is an indication for the relevant departments showing parts of the draft act which may require correction when the final text is prepared – for instance, obvious errors or omissions in a language version. Suggested corrections of this kind are subject to the agreement of the departments concerned.

The heading for any amendment to an existing act that the draft act seeks to amend includes a third line identifying the existing act and a fourth line identifying the provision in that act that Parliament wishes to amend. Passages in an existing act that Parliament wishes to amend, but that the draft act has left unchanged, are highlighted in bold. Any deletions that Parliament wishes to make in such passages are indicated thus: [...].
DRAFT EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION

(Ordinary legislative procedure: first reading)

The European Parliament,

– having regard to the Commission proposal to Parliament and the Council (COM(2011)0794), – having regard to Article 294(2) and Article 114 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, pursuant to which the Commission submitted the proposal to Parliament (C7-0453/2011),

– having regard to Article 294(3) of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union,

– having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee of 28 March 2012¹,

– having regard to Rule 55 of its Rules of Procedure,

– having regard to the report of the Committee on the Internal Market and Consumer Protection and the opinion of the Committee on Legal Affairs (A7-0236/2012),

1. Adopts its position at first reading hereinafter set out;

2. Calls on the Commission to refer the matter to Parliament again if it intends to amend its proposal substantially or replace it with another text;

3. Instructs its President to forward its position to the Council, the Commission and the national parliaments.

Furthermore, the uneven availability, quality and awareness of simple, efficient and low-cost means of resolving disputes arising from the sale of goods or provision of services across the Union constitutes a barrier within the Single Market which undermines consumers' and traders' confidence in shopping and selling across borders.

(3b) Realising the potential of online trade would make a substantial contribution to returning the Union to economic growth, but doing so requires the proper integration of the ODR platform and the ADR entities as outlined in Directive …../../EU1.

Recital 5

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment

(5) The Internal Market is a reality for consumers in their daily lives, when they travel, buy and make payments. Consumers are key players in the Internal Market and should therefore be at its heart. The digital dimension of the Internal Market is becoming vital for both consumers and traders. Consumers increasingly make purchases over the internet and an increasing number of traders sell online. Consumers and traders should feel confident in carrying out transactions in a digital environment.

In the current crisis, measures to boost economic growth, job creation and consumer recovery are essential. While the digital market provides a valuable opportunity to achieve these objectives, the Union must be capable of establishing a full digital internal market if it is to take advantage of that opportunity. It is essential, on the one hand, to dismantle existing barriers and, on the other hand, to boost consumer confidence. The existence of a reliable and efficient online dispute settlement system could also greatly help achieve this increase in consumer confidence in the Union.

Amendment 4
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 7

Text proposed by the Commission

(7) Online dispute resolution offers a simple and low-cost out-of-court solution to disputes arising from cross-border online transactions. However, there is currently a lack of mechanisms that allow consumers and traders to resolve such disputes via electronic means. This leads to consumer detriment, acts as a barrier to cross-border online transactions, creates an uneven playing field for traders and thus hampers the development of electronic commerce.

Amendment

(7) Online dispute resolution offers a simple, effective and low-cost out-of-court solution to disputes arising from both cross-border and domestic online transactions. However, there is currently a lack of mechanisms that allow consumers and traders to resolve such disputes via electronic means. This leads to consumer detriment, acts as a barrier in particular to cross-border online transactions, creates an uneven playing field for traders and thus hampers the overall development of electronic commerce.

Amendment 5
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 8
(8) This Regulation should apply to the out-of-court resolution of contractual disputes between consumers and traders that arise from the online sale of goods or provision of services by traders across borders. It should not apply to disputes between consumers and traders that arise from the online sale of goods or provision of services if at least one of them is not established or resident in a Member State of the Union at the time when the consumer orders such goods or services or the trader and the consumer are established or resident in the same Member State.

(8) This Regulation should apply to the out-of-court resolution of disputes concerning contractual obligations between consumers resident in the Union and traders established in the Union stemming from the online sale of goods or provision of services, which are covered by Directive [Directive on consumer ADR]. This should include disputes arising from the sale or provision of digital content for remuneration. Although in particular consumers and traders carrying out cross-border online transactions will benefit from such an online dispute resolution mechanism, this Regulation should also apply to domestic online transactions in order to allow for a true level playing field in the area of electronic commerce. This should include disputes arising from the sale or provision of digital content for remuneration. It should not apply to disputes between consumers and traders that arise from the online sale of goods or provision of services if at least one of them is not established or resident in a Member State of the Union at the time when the consumer orders such goods or services.

(11) The definition of ‘online sale of goods or provision of services’ should cover a transaction for the online sale of goods or provision of services where the trader, or the trader's intermediary, has offered goods or services through a website or by other electronic means and the consumer has ordered those goods or services on that website or by other electronic means. This should also cover cases where the... consumer has accessed the website or other information society service through a mobile electronic device such as a mobile telephone. Services which are not provided by electronic processing/inventory systems, such as services provided via voice telephony or telefax, such as telephone or telefax consultation of a doctor, telephone or telefax consultation of a lawyer, or telephone or telefax direct marketing, should not be regarded as services provided by electronic means.

Amendment 7

(12) This Regulation should not apply to disputes between consumers and traders that arise from the cross-border sale of goods or provision of services offline. This Regulation should not apply to disputes between traders.

Amendment

(12) This Regulation should not apply to disputes between traders.

Amendment 8
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 13 a (new)

Text proposed by the Commission

(13a) Before submitting their dispute to an ADR entity via the ODR platform, consumers should be encouraged by Member States to make every effort to contact the trader via their website, email, or other electronic means as appropriate, with the aim of resolving the dispute amicably.

Amendment

(13a) Before submitting their dispute to an ADR entity via the ODR platform, consumers should be encouraged by Member States to make every effort to contact the trader via their website, email, or other electronic means as appropriate, with the aim of resolving the dispute amicably.
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 14

Text proposed by the Commission

(14) This Regulation aims at creating an online dispute resolution ('ODR') platform at European level. The ODR platform should take the form of an interactive website offering a single point of entry to consumers and traders seeking to resolve disputes out-of-court which have arisen from a cross-border e-commerce transaction. It should allow consumers and traders to submit complaints by filling in an electronic complaint form available in all official languages of the Union and transmit complaints to an alternative dispute resolution ('ADR') entity competent to deal with the dispute concerned. The platform should offer to ADR entities and the parties the possibility of conducting the dispute resolution procedure via the platform.

Amendment

(14) This Regulation aims at creating an online dispute resolution ('ODR') platform at European level. The Commission should be responsible for the establishment and maintenance of that platform, which should take the form of an interactive website offering a single point of entry to consumers and traders seeking to resolve disputes out-of-court which have arisen from a cross-border e-commerce transactions. The ODR platform should provide general information regarding the out-of-court settlement of contractual disputes between traders and consumers arising from the online sale of goods or provision of services. It should allow consumers and traders to submit complaints by filling in an electronic complaint form available in all official languages of the Union and inform them of the possibility of seeking assistance from contact points if necessary in completing the form correctly. It should transmit complaints to an alternative dispute resolution ('ADR') entity competent to deal with the dispute concerned. The ODR platform should be interoperable with existing ADR entities operating online. The complaint form should contain only that information which is necessary to identify the ADR entity or entities competent to deal with a dispute.

Amendment 10

Proposal for a regulation
Recital 14 a (new)

Text proposed by the Commission

(14a) The ODR platform should allow consumers and traders to submit complaints by filling in an electronic complaint form available in all official languages of the Union and transmit complaints electronically to an alternative dispute resolution ('ADR') entity competent to deal with the dispute concerned.

The platform should offer, free of charge, an electronic case management tool which enables the parties and the ADR entity to conduct the dispute resolution procedure online via the platform. ADR entities should be able to use this and customise it for their procedures. That tool should allow parties and ADR entities to upload relevant statements and evidence. In accordance with the ADR procedure applied by the relevant ADR entity, it should automatically set deadlines to parties, inter alia for making submissions. It should also provide for a restricted access website on the ODR platform, capable of being accessed by the parties, the ADR entity and if necessary by the contact points.

Amendment 11

Proposal for a regulation
Recital 14 b (new)

Text proposed by the Commission

(14b) The Commission should provide the technical facilities necessary for the functioning of the platform, including translation functions. The tool should offer an electronic translation function to the parties and the ADR entity. This function should be capable of dealing with all necessary translations and should be supported by translators. The Commission should also provide, on the ODR platform, information for consumers about the possibility of requesting assistance from the contact points. However, consumers should be encouraged to contact the trader first and thereby directly seek an amicable solution to the dispute before they submit a complaint to the ODR platform.

Amendment 12
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 14 c (new)

Text proposed by the Commission

(14c) The ODR platform should be accessed only through the 'Your Europe'-portal thematic website, as this portal is an existing single point of entry for both consumers and traders looking for help or information about their rights under Union legislation. The ODR platform should be given prominence on the 'Your Europe'-portal.

Amendment 13
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 15

Text proposed by the Commission

(15) An ODR system at European level should build on existing ADR entities in the Member States and respect Member States' legal traditions. ADR entities to which a complaint has been transmitted via the ODR platform should therefore apply their own rules of procedure, including rules on cost. However, this Regulation intends to establish some common rules applicable to those procedures that will safeguard their effectiveness. This should include rules ensuring that such dispute resolution is accomplished expeditiously.

Amendment

(15) An ODR system at European level should build on existing ADR entities in the Member States and respect Member States' legal traditions. ADR entities to which a complaint has been transmitted via the ODR platform should therefore apply their own rules of procedure, including rules on cost. However, this Regulation intends to establish some common rules applicable to those procedures that will safeguard their effectiveness. The parties should be able to access the ODR Platform established by this Regulation, without being required to be physically present for the procedure. However, it should be possible for both parties to decide that their physical presence is necessary.
Amendment 14
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 16

Text proposed by the Commission

(16) Ensuring that all ADR entities notified to the Commission in accordance with Article 17(2) of Directive .../.../EU [= Directive on consumer ADR] Office of Publications insert reference number] are linked electronically to the European ODR platform should allow the full coverage in out-of-court redress online for cross-border disputes arising from the online sale of goods or provision of services.

Amendment

(16) Ensuring that all ADR entities notified to the Commission in accordance with Article 17(2) of Directive .../.../EU [= Directive on consumer ADR] Office of Publications insert reference number] are linked electronically to the ODR platform should allow the full coverage in out-of-court redress online for disputes arising from the online sale of goods or provision of services.

Amendment 15
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 17

Text proposed by the Commission

(17) This Regulation does not prevent the functioning of any existing online dispute resolution entity operating within the Union. It should not prevent ADR entities from dealing with cross-border online disputes which have been submitted to them by a means other than the ODR platform.

Amendment

(17) This Regulation does not prevent the functioning of any existing online dispute resolution entity operating within the Union. It should not prevent ADR entities from dealing with online disputes which have been submitted to them by a means other than the ODR platform.

Amendment

(18) Contact points should be established to provide support to consumers seeking to resolve their dispute with a trader through the ODR platform. Contact points should assist with the submission of the complaint and provide general the Member States which host online dispute resolution facilitators.

information in relation to online dispute resolution procedures. contact points should not be obliged to translate any documents or obliged to resolve disputes directly.

Justification

It adds unnecessary duplication to specify ODR contact points and ODR facilitators. It would be better to set out the functions of the ODR contact points and let Member States decide how best to fulfil these functions. It would also be helpful to clarify what kind of assistance should be provided.

Amendment 17
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 19

Text proposed by the Commission

(19) The right to an effective remedy and the right to a fair trial are fundamental rights guaranteed in Article 47 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union. Online dispute resolution procedures cannot be designed to replace court procedures and should not deprive consumers or traders of their rights to seek redress before the courts. Nothing in this Regulation should, therefore, prevent parties from exercising their right of access to the judicial system.

Amendment

(19) The right to an effective remedy and the right to a fair trial are fundamental rights guaranteed in Article 47 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union. Online dispute resolution procedures are not intended to and cannot be designed to replace court procedures, nor should they deprive consumers or traders of their rights to seek redress before the courts. Nothing in this Regulation should, therefore, prevent parties from exercising their right of access to the judicial system.

Amendment

(21) Data subjects should be informed about, and give their consent to, the processing of their personal data in the ODR platform, and their rights with regard to that processing, by means of a comprehensive privacy notice to be made publicly available by the Commission and the processing operations performed under the responsibility of the various actors of the platform, in accordance with Articles 11 and 12 of Regulation (EC) No 45/2001 and with national legislation adopted pursuant to Articles 10 and 11 of Directive 95/46/EC.

Text proposed by the Commission
(23) In order to supplement or amend certain non-essential elements of this Regulation, the power to adopt acts in accordance with Article 290 TFEU should be delegated to the Commission in respect of the type of information which a complainant is to provide in the electronic complaint form made available on the ODR platform. It is of particular importance that the Commission carries out appropriate consultations during its preparatory work, including at expert level. The Commission, when preparing and drawing up delegated acts, should ensure a simultaneous, timely and appropriate transmission of relevant documents to the European Parliament and Council.

Amendment
(23) In order to supplement or amend certain non-essential elements of this Regulation, the power to adopt acts in accordance with Article 290 TFEU should be delegated to the Commission in respect of the functions of the ODR platform, the modalities of cooperation between the contact points and the type of information which a complainant is to provide in the electronic complaint form made available on the ODR platform, as well as the modalities of that electronic complaint form. It is of particular importance that the Commission carries out appropriate consultations during its preparatory work, including at expert level. Amendment
(25) Since the objectives of this Regulation, namely to set up a European online dispute resolution platform for cross-border online disputes governed by common rules, because of the scale and effects of the action, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States and therefore be better achieved at Union level, the Union may adopt measures in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty on European Union. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Regulation does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve that objective.

Amendment 21

Proposal for a regulation

Article 1

Text proposed by the Commission

The purpose of this Regulation is to contribute to the functioning of the internal market, and in particular its digital dimension, and to the achievement of a high level of consumer protection by providing a platform facilitating the impartial, transparent, effective and fair out-of-court resolution of disputes between consumers and traders online.

Amendment

The purpose of this Regulation is to contribute to the effective functioning of the internal market, and in particular its digital dimension, and to the achievement of a high level of consumer protection by providing an online platform facilitating the independent, impartial, transparent, effective and fair out-of-court resolution of disputes between consumers and traders online.

Amendment

(g) ‘alternative dispute resolution procedure’ (hereinafter ‘ADR procedure’) means a procedure for the out-of-court resolution of a dispute through the intervention of a dispute resolution entity which proposes or imposes a solution or brings the parties together with the aim of facilitating an amicable solution as set out in Article 2 of Directive …../EU [Directive on consumer ADR] which has been communicated to the Commission in accordance with Article 17(2) of that Directive;

Amendment 29
Proposal for a regulation
Article 4 – paragraph 1 – point g – paragraph 2

Text proposed by the Commission

Procedures before dispute resolution entities where the natural persons in charge of dispute resolution are employed exclusively by the trader, procedures before consumer complaint handling systems operated by the trader, direct negotiation between the consumer and the trader, whether represented or not, and attempts made by a judge to settle a dispute in the course of a judicial proceeding concerning that dispute shall not be regarded as ADR procedures;

Amendment

Procedures before dispute resolution entities where the natural persons in charge of dispute resolution are employed exclusively by the trader are not to be regarded as ADR procedures unless these entities comply with the general requirements of Chapter II of Directive …../EU [Directive on consumer ADR], and in particular with Article 17 thereof, and if the following additional conditions are met:

- the natural persons in charge of dispute resolution are hierarchically independent from the trader and cannot be subject to instructions given by the trader;

- the remuneration of the natural persons in charge of dispute resolution is not subject to the outcome of the dispute resolution procedure;
- the natural persons in charge of dispute resolution must not have worked for the trader concerned during the three years prior to assuming the post.

- the dispute resolution entity is subjected to an annual evaluation by the competent authority of the Member State where it is established regarding compliance with the principles laid down in this Directive;

Justification

Mediation provided by the traders or 'in-house' mediation should not be excluded, as it constitutes an important part of alternative dispute resolution mechanisms. Recommendation 98/257/EC did not exclude such type of mediation if certain conditions were met. 'In-house' mediation can bring a true added value to out-of-court dispute resolution, as it ensures technical/'on the field' knowledge, and allows for the development of proximity mediation which is valuable for the parties.

Amendment

Amendment

(h) "alternative dispute resolution entity" (hereinafter "ADR entity") means an entity that has been listed in accordance with Article 17(2) of Directive ....../EU [(Directive on consumer ADR].

Justification

It is more appropriate to define an ADR entity in accordance with those listed in accordance with Article 17(2) of the ADR Directive, as opposed to Article 4(e) of the ADR Directive because ADR providers should only be regarded as ADR entities if a Competent Authority accepts that they meet the required quality standards.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

The Commission's draft proposal aims at establishing a European Online Dispute Resolution platform “ODR platform”. It will be an interactive website offering consumers and traders a single point of entry for out of court resolution of certain disputes – contractual disputes arising from the cross-border online sale of goods or the provision of services by a trader established in a Member State to a consumer resident in another Member State. The platform will be free of charge and available in all official languages of the EU. The proposal has to be looked at in conjunction with the draft proposal for a directive on alternative dispute resolution for consumer disputes (“ADR Directive”). This draft Directive aims at enhancing redress for consumers by ensuring that all consumer complaints can be submitted to an ADR entity (e.g. arbitrator, conciliator, ombudsman or complaints board) for out of court resolution.

The ODR platform will be able to identify a competent ADR entity falling under the ADR Directive and communicate core information about that entity (fees, language(s) of the procedure, binding/non-binding nature of the outcome of the procedure etc) to the parties. Upon agreement between the parties on which ADR shall treat the complaint, the platform will automatically transmit the complaint to that ADR entity, which will seek to resolve the dispute within 30 days applying its own rules of procedure. The trader's agreement to use ADR will be presumed if, according to the provisions on customer information in the ADR Directive, it has committed to use the ADR entity concerned on its website. The platform will enable the parties and the ADR entity to conduct the dispute resolution procedure online. A "network of ODR facilitators" will be established to support the resolution of disputes which will be transmitted via the ODR platform.

Scope of the Regulation

Your Rapporteur supports the basic principle of making available voluntary ADR systems in every economic sector to facilitate consumer redress.

Your Rapporteur welcomes the fact that the draft Regulation applies to complaints filed not only by customers but also by traders. While your Rapporteur agrees that, in purely statistical terms, most complaints will be lodged by consumers, it is important that the tool is also available to complaints by traders in cases of, for example, non-payment or refusal to accept delivery of goods. This is all the more important in light of the fact that the ADR system laid out by the draft Directive is voluntary and therefore it is essential that the legislation provides incentives for traders to commit to ADR.

However, your Rapporteur deplores the fact that the draft Regulation applies only to disputes arising from the cross-border online sale of goods or provision of services by a trader established in a Member State to a consumer resident in another Member State. Your Rapporteur encourages Members to seek a more ambitious solution to that contained in the draft Regulation and proposes that its scope be extended to include domestic online disputes as it is often difficult for consumers to ascertain if they are buying products and services on a cross-border basis when carrying out online transactions. Moreover, as the Internet economy is driven by the so-called network effect (i.e., the more a tool such as Google or Facebook is used, the more advantageous it is for users); the greater the number of disputes submitted by users to the ODR platform, the greater the incentive for ADR entities and for traders to cooperate with it, generating a "virtuous circle" that will benefit consumers, promote e-commerce and improve the functioning of the retail Internal Market. As the fixed costs of creating the platform will remain the same regardless of its scope, this "network benefit" will be achieved without causing a large increase in the total cost of running the enlarged platform.

Role of Facilitators

Your Rapporteur notes that the role of the network of ODR facilitators (which the Rapporteur intends to rename "consumer advisors") is quite limited in the draft Regulation. It is envisaged that these ODR consumer advisors will intervene only as a “last resort” to inform consumers of other means of redress when a dispute cannot be solved via the platform. They will also, only upon request, facilitate communication between the parties and the competent ADR entity. Additionally, they will draw up an annual activity report on the operation of the platform.

This is a direct consequence of an inherent contradiction in the draft Regulation – that the platform will be an IT tool operated by the European Commission from Brussels but facilitators will be based in the Members States.

Your Rapporteur calls for an increased role for the consumer advisors, so that they can be contacted by complainants at any point during the process of resolution of their complaint. They should be closely associated with the operation of the platform and available to “hold the hand” of consumers from the moment that the complaint form is filled in. Consumer advisors will help parties in choosing an ADR entity if more than one is identified by the ODR platform. They can also help to resolve language and translation problems if the dispute is cross-border in nature. Apart from helping complainants to use the ODR platform, consumer advisors should provide general information to consumers about their rights and suggest other courses of action, such as contacting the trader, starting judicial proceedings etc. If no ADR entity competent to resolve the dispute can be identified, the consumer advisors will also be a "last resort" for the parties by helping them to find an amicable solution.

Role of European Consumer Centres

The draft Regulation provides that Member States may confer the responsibility for carrying out the tasks assigned to facilitators to the European Consumer Centre network, consumer associations or any other body. Your Rapporteur would like to draw attention to the fact that ECCs are mentioned in EP and Council Decision 1926/2006 establishing the 2007-2013 consumer policy programme and that they already provide information and assistance to consumers to help them exercise their rights and obtain access to appropriate dispute resolution.

On this basis, it seems appropriate to amend the draft Regulation to set out that consumer advisors will be based in ECCs. This reinforcement of the role of ECCs will go a long way towards establishing a “one stop shop” for all queries from EU citizens. In order to achieve this, your Rapporteur proposes that the ODR be housed in the European Commission operated portal "Your Europe" which offers practical help and advice about the rights of EU citizens.
Time Periods

Your Rapporteur would like to remind you of the old principle “delayed justice is justice denied” and notes that the provisions on processing and transmitting complaints do not set any deadlines for the time period between filling in the complaint form on the ODR platform and either the submission of the complaint by the platform to the relevant ADR entity or, in the absence of agreement between consumer and trader to refer the matter, the moment in which the complaint shall not be processed further. Therefore, a time limit of seven working days is proposed for the processing of the complaint by the platform. This proposed change is accompanied by other modifications to clarify and streamline the workflow of the ODR platform.

On this basis, Your Rapporteur believes that the maximum time period of 30 days for the resolution of disputes by ADR entity should be amended. Instead, it is proposed that the time period for dispute resolution is extended to 90 days, in line with the provisions of the ADR directive. This time period will begin once the dispute is received by the ADR entity.

Data Protection

Your Rapporteur would like to recall the opinion of the European Data Protection Supervisor welcoming the fact that data protection principles have been included in the text, in particular in relation to the purpose and access limitation, the limitation of the retention period and the security measures provided in Article 11. Additionally, your Rapporteur proposes that data are shared with consumer advisors only on a "need to know" basis and that the Commission conducts privacy impact assessments.

Implementing and Delegated Acts

Your Rapporteur understands that the Commission needs some room to manoeuvre for the creation of this new instrument and its practical implementation.

However, in order to ensure that the European Parliament fulfils its role of oversight for the benefit of consumers, it is proposed that the implementing powers requested by the Commission in relation to (i) the functions of the platform, (ii) the modalities of cooperation between ODR facilitators, and (iii) the modalities of the electronic complaint form are replaced by delegated acts.

In particular, Your Rapporteur is concerned about the translation capabilities of the ODR platform and wants to ensure that it works correctly in every language combination. She also wants to ensure that the interface between consumers and the platform (i.e. the electronic complaint form) is customer friendly and easy to use. The best way to achieve these objectives is to make sure that the Parliament maintains a veto right over the Commission's proposals in this regard.

OPINION OF THE COMMITTEE ON LEGAL AFFAIRS

for the Committee on the Internal Market and Consumer Protection

Rapporteur: Luigi Berlinguer

SHORT JUSTIFICATION

Your rapporteur for opinion welcomes the Commission proposal for a regulation on online dispute resolution for consumer disputes, since it will contribute to the functioning of the internal market and improve ADR coverage given that access to ADR can be burdensome due to language barriers, unfamiliar procedures etc.

However, he strongly believes that the system proposed can only reach these goals if it is comprehensive (including domestic and cross-border as well as online and offline transactions), complies with high standards (high consumer protection, impartiality, efficiency, transparency), is easy to use, provides efficient results and preserves access to justice, i.e. in particular does not deprive consumers of their right to seek redress before the courts.

The proposed amendments seek to achieve this, in particular by:

- extending the scope to both cross-border and domestic transactions, given that there is no reason (and also often no practical possibility) to distinguish between those two types of transactions; for the same reason the scope should also include disputes arising from offline transactions;
- renaming the platform to "online signposting platform", in order to more explicitly describe its function ("signposting") and its scope (covering as an online tool both online and offline transactions);
- assuring that the online signposting platform does indeed assist consumers to a maximum in benefiting from ADR: by including access to traders' complaint services in the platform, by providing comprehensive information publicly available to all interested parties on ADR procedures and ADR entities; by making contact information of facilitators available on the platform; by providing for assistance to consumers, together with the contact points and facilitators, in filling out the complaint form and selecting the best-suited ADR entity, and by assisting, through an ad-hoc mechanism composed by competent facilitators, in case no common competent ADR entity could be identified by consumer and trader in a first step;

- stating the responsibility of the Commission for the online platform as clearly as possible;
- promoting low-cost ADR and use of online tools, by informing consumers as fully and as early as possible on aspects such as fees and the need for physical presence, and by including the online communication aspect specifically in the review clause;
- clearly defining the deadlines in which the competent ADR entity has to be found and the dispute has to be resolved;
- reorganising the attribution of implementing and delegated acts compared to the Commission proposal, with a view to better reflecting the objectives of Articles 290 and 291 TFEU.

low-cost ways of resolving disputes which arise from the sale of goods or the supply of services online. This is particularly important when consumers shop cross-border.

This is obviously important when consumers shop cross-border, but also for domestic transactions. It might also be difficult to make a distinction between cross-border and domestic transactions on the one hand and between online and offline transactions on the other. Accordingly, this Regulation should apply to cross-border and domestic as well as to online and offline transactions.

Amendment 3
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 5

Text proposed by the Commission

(5) The Internal Market is a reality for consumers in their daily lives, when they travel, buy and make payments. Consumers are key players in the Internal Market and should therefore be at its heart. The digital dimension of the Internal Market is becoming vital for both consumers and traders. Consumers increasingly make purchases over the internet and an increasing number of traders sell online. Consumers and traders should feel confident in carrying out transactions in a digital environment.

Amendment

(6) Being able to seek easy and low-cost dispute resolution can boost consumers' and traders' confidence in the internal market. Consumers and traders, however, still face barriers to finding out-of-court solutions in particular to their disputes arising from a cross-border online transaction. Thus, such disputes currently are often left unresolved.

(7) Online dispute resolution offers a simple and low-cost out-of-court solution to disputes arising from cross-border online transactions. However, there is currently a lack of mechanisms that allow consumers and traders to resolve such disputes via electronic means. This leads to consumer detriment, acts as a barrier to cross-border online transactions, creates an uneven playing field for traders and thus hampers the development of electronic commerce.

(14) This Regulation aims at creating an online dispute resolution ('ODR') platform at European level. The ODR platform should take the form of an interactive website offering a single point of entry to consumers and traders seeking to resolve disputes out-of-court which have arisen from a cross-border e-commerce transaction. It should allow consumers and traders to submit complaints by filling in an electronic complaint form available in all official languages of the Union and transmit complaints to an alternative dispute resolution ('ADR') entity competent to deal with the dispute concerned. The platform should offer to ADR entities and the parties the possibility of conducting the dispute resolution procedure via the platform.

(15) A system at European level should build on existing ADR entities in the Member States and respect Member States' legal traditions. ADR entities to which a complaint has been transmitted via the online signposting platform should therefore apply their own rules of procedure, including rules on cost. It should be recalled in this context that, in accordance with Article 8(c) of Directive …/…/EU [= Directive on consumer ADR] Office of Publications insert reference number], costs for consumers should be moderate. However, this

(18a) In order not to multiply access points for consumers, Member States should, in the first place, confer responsibility for the contact points on their centres of the European Consumer Centres Network. The facilitators should provide support for the resolution of disputes via the platform, in particular by assisting and informing consumers. As the success of the platform will therefore also depend on the facilitators' abilities and expertise, they should be adequately trained by the Commission and the Member States.

Furthermore, this obligation should be without prejudice to Articles 6(1)(t) and 8 of Directive 2011/83/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 25 October 2011 on consumer rights. Article 6(1)(t) of Directive 2011/83/EU stipulates for consumer contracts concluded at a distance or off premises that the trader has to inform the consumer about the possibility of having recourse to an out-of-court complaint and redress mechanism to which the trader is subject, and the methods for having access to it, before the consumer is bound by the contract.

The obligation to inform consumers of the existence of the online signposting platform should not create excessive administrative burdens for small and micro enterprises within the meaning of Commission Recommendation 2003/361 of 6 May 2003 concerning the definition of micro, small and medium-sized enterprises. Small and micro enterprises should transmit to consumers all relevant information when they are confronted to a particular problem.

Article 4 – point g – subparagraph 2

(g) ‘alternative dispute resolution procedure’ (hereinafter ‘ADR procedure’) means a procedure for the out-of-court resolution of a dispute whereby the parties involved attempt to solve their conflict through the intervention of a dispute resolution entity which adopts a decision binding or non-binding on the parties or brings the parties together with the aim of reaching a mutually acceptable agreement;
Procedures before dispute resolution entities where the natural persons in charge of dispute resolution are employed exclusively by the trader, procedures before consumer complaint handling systems operated by the trader, direct negotiation between the consumer and the trader, whether represented or not, and attempts made by a judge to settle a dispute in the course of a judicial proceeding concerning that dispute shall not be regarded as ADR procedures;

Justification

The definition and scope of ADR are provided in Articles 2 and 4 of the Directive on consumer ADR. There is no need for its inclusion in this Regulation.

Amendment 25

Proposal for a regulation
Article 4 – point i

Text proposed by the Commission

(i) ‘complainant party’ means the consumer or the trader that has submitted a complaint via the European online dispute resolution platform;

Justification

Alignment with amendments on the scope of the Regulation and Directive on consumer ADR. The complainant can only be the consumer.

Amendment 26

Proposal for a regulation
Article 4 – point j

Text proposed by the Commission

(j) ‘respondent party’ means the consumer or the trader against whom a complaint has been submitted via the European online dispute resolution platform;

Justification

Alignment with amendments on the scope of the Regulation and Directive on consumer ADR. The respondent party can only be the trader.

Amendment 27

Proposal for a regulation
Article 5 – paragraph 2

Text proposed by the Commission
2. The ODR platform shall be an interactive website which can be accessed electronically and free of charge in all official languages of the Union. The ODR platform shall be a single point of entry to consumers and traders seeking the out-of-court resolution of disputes covered by this Regulation.

Amendment
2. The online signposting platform shall be an interactive website which can be accessed electronically and free of charge in all official languages of the Union. The online signposting platform shall be a single point of entry to consumers and traders seeking information on out-of-court resolution of contractual disputes arising from the sale of goods or provision of services between consumers and traders and/or seeking the out-of-court resolution of disputes covered by this Regulation.

Amendment 28

Proposal for a regulation
Article 5 – paragraph 3 – subparagraph 1 – point a

Text proposed by the Commission
(a) providing an electronic complaint form which can be filled in by the complainant party;

Amendment
(a) providing an electronic complaint form which can be filled in by the consumer;

(This amendment applies throughout the text. Adopting it will necessitate corresponding changes throughout.)
Justification

Alignment with amendments on the scope of the regulation and directive on consumer ADR. The complainant can only be the consumer. To be applied throughout the text.

Amendment

1. Traders established within the Union engaging in the cross-border online sale of goods or provision of services shall inform consumers about the online signposting platform and about their e-mail address. This information shall be made clearly and easily accessible on the traders' websites and, if the offer is made by e-mail or made by e-mail or another textual message transmitted by electronic means, in that message. It shall include an electronic link to the ODR platform's homepage. Traders shall also inform consumers about the ODR platform when the consumer submits a complaint to the trader, a consumer complaint handling system operated by the trader or to a company ombudsman.

2. The provisions in paragraph 1 are without prejudice to the provisions in Article 10 of Directive …/…/EU [Office of Publications please insert number of Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council on alternative dispute resolution for consumer disputes and amending Regulation (EC) No 2006/2004 and Directive 2009/22/EC (Directive on consumer ADR)] concerning the information of consumers by traders about the ADR procedures by which those traders are covered and about whether or not those traders commit to use alternative dispute resolution procedures to resolve disputes with consumers.

3. The provisions in paragraph 1 are without prejudice to the provisions in Articles 6 and 8 of Directive 2011/83/EU concerning consumer information for distance and off-premises contracts.

3a. The obligation to inform consumers of the existence of the online signposting platform in all textual messages in accordance with paragraph 1 shall not apply if the trader is a small or micro enterprise within the meaning of the Commission Recommendation 2003/361.
of 6 May 2003 concerning the definition of micro, small and medium-sized enterprises[^3]. In that case, the trader shall provide the information about the online signposting platform only once the consumer has complained to him.
