Amendments to a draft act

In amendments by Parliament, amendments to draft acts are highlighted in bold italics. Highlighting in normal italics is an indication for the relevant departments showing parts of the draft act which may require correction when the final text is prepared – for instance, obvious errors or omissions in a language version. Suggested corrections of this kind are subject to the agreement of the departments concerned.

The heading for any amendment to an existing act that the draft act seeks to amend includes a third line identifying the existing act and a fourth line identifying the provision in that act that Parliament wishes to amend. Passages in an existing act that Parliament wishes to amend, but that the draft act has left unchanged, are highlighted in bold. Any deletions that Parliament wishes to make in such passages are indicated thus: [...].

DRAFT EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION ........................................5
EXPLANATORY STATEMENT.........................................................................................42

(Ordinary legislative procedure: first reading)

The European Parliament,

– having regard to the Commission proposal to Parliament and the Council (COM(2011)0794),

– having regard to Article 294(2) and Article 114 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, pursuant to which the Commission submitted the proposal to Parliament (C7-0453/2011),

– having regard to Article 294(3) of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union,

– having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee of 28 March 2012¹,

– having regard to Rule 55 of its Rules of Procedure,

– having regard to the report of the Committee on the Internal Market and Consumer Protection and the opinion of the Committee on Legal Affairs (A7-0000/2012),

1. Adopts its position at first reading hereinafter set out;

2. Calls on the Commission to refer the matter to Parliament again if it intends to amend its proposal substantially or replace it with another text;

3. Instructs its President to forward its position to the Council, the Commission and the national parliaments.

still face barriers to finding out-of-court solutions in particular to their disputes arising from a cross-border online transaction. Thus, such disputes currently are often left unresolved.

Amendment 2
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 7

Text proposed by the Commission

(7) Online dispute resolution offers a simple and low-cost out-of-court solution to disputes arising from cross-border online transactions. However, there is currently a lack of mechanisms that allow consumers and traders to resolve such disputes via electronic means. This leads to consumer detriment, acts as a barrier to cross-border online transactions, creates an uneven playing field for traders and thus hampers the development of electronic commerce.

Amendment

(7) Online dispute resolution offers a simple and low-cost out-of-court solution to disputes arising from both cross-border and domestic online transactions. However, there is currently a lack of mechanisms that allow consumers and traders to resolve such disputes via electronic means. This leads to consumer detriment, acts as a barrier in particular to cross-border online transactions, creates an uneven playing field for traders and thus hampers the overall development of electronic commerce.

Amendment 3
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 8

Text proposed by the Commission

(8) This Regulation should apply to the out-of-court resolution of contractual disputes between consumers and traders that arise from the online sale of goods or provision of services by traders across borders. It should not apply to disputes between consumers and traders that arise from the online sale of goods or provision of services if at least one of them is not

Amendment

(8) This Regulation should apply to the out-of-court resolution of contractual disputes between consumers and traders that arise from the online sale of goods or provision of services by traders. Although consumers and traders carrying out cross-border online transactions, in particular, will benefit from such an online dispute resolution mechanism, this Regulation established or resident in a Member State of the Union at the time when the consumer orders such goods or services or the trader and the consumer are established or resident in the same Member State.

should also apply to domestic online transactions in order to allow for a true level playing field in the area of electronic commerce.

Amendment 4
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 11

Text proposed by the Commission

(11) The definition of ‘online sale of goods or provision of services’ should cover a transaction for the online sale of goods or provision of services where the trader, or the trader's intermediary, has offered goods or services through a website or by other electronic means and the consumer has ordered those goods or services on that website or by other electronic means. This should also cover cases where the consumer has accessed the website or other information society service through a mobile electronic device such as a mobile telephone.

Amendment

(11) The definition of ‘online sale of goods or provision of services’ should cover a transaction for the online sale of goods or provision of services where the trader, or the trader's intermediary, has offered goods or services through a website or by other electronic means and the consumer has ordered those goods or services on that website or by other electronic means. This should also cover cases where the consumer has accessed the website or other information society service through a mobile electronic device such as a mobile telephone. Services which are not provided by electronic processing/inventory systems, such as services provided via voice telephony or telefax, such as telephone or telefax consultation of a doctor, telephone or telefax consultation of a lawyer, or telephone or telefax direct marketing, should not be regarded as services provided by electronic means.

Amendment 5
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 14
(14) This Regulation aims at creating an online dispute resolution (‘ODR’) platform at European level. The ODR platform should take the form of an interactive website offering a single point of entry to consumers and traders seeking to resolve disputes out-of-court which have arisen from a cross-border e-commerce transaction. It should allow consumers and traders to submit complaints by filling in an electronic complaint form available in all official languages of the Union and transmit complaints to an alternative dispute resolution (‘ADR’) entity competent to deal with the dispute concerned. The platform should be established on the 'Your Europe'-portal, which is an existing single point of entry for both consumers and traders looking for help or information.

(14) This Regulation aims at creating an online dispute resolution (‘ODR’) platform at European level. The ODR platform should take the form of an interactive website offering a single point of entry to consumers and traders seeking to resolve disputes out-of-court which have arisen from e-commerce transactions. The platform should be established on the 'Your Europe'-portal, which is an existing single point of entry for both consumers and traders looking for help or information.

Amendment 6
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 14 a (new)

Text proposed by the Commission

(14a) The ODR platform should allow consumers and traders to submit complaints by filling in an electronic complaint form available in all official languages of the Union and transmit complaints electronically to an alternative dispute resolution (‘ADR’) entity competent to deal with the dispute concerned. The ODR platform should be interoperable with existing national ODR platforms. The complaint form should contain only that information which is necessary to determine the relevant ADR entities. The platform should offer to ADR entities and the parties the possibility of conducting the dispute resolution procedure via the platform.
procedure via the ODR platform.

Amendment 7
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 16

Text proposed by the Commission

(16) Ensuring that all ADR entities notified to the Commission in accordance with Article 17(2) of Directive .../.../EU [= Directive on consumer ADR] Office of Publications insert reference number] are linked electronically to the European ODR platform should allow the full coverage in out-of-court redress online for cross-border disputes arising from the online sale of goods or provision of services.

Amendment

(16) Ensuring that all ADR entities notified to the Commission in accordance with Article 17(2) of Directive .../.../EU [= Directive on consumer ADR] Office of Publications insert reference number] are linked electronically to the ODR platform should allow the full coverage in out-of-court redress online for disputes arising from the online sale of goods or provision of services.

Amendment 8
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 17

Text proposed by the Commission

(17) This Regulation does not prevent the functioning of any existing online dispute resolution entity operating within the Union. It should not prevent ADR entities from dealing with cross-border online disputes which have been submitted to them by a means other than the ODR platform.

Amendment

(17) This Regulation does not prevent the functioning of any existing online dispute resolution entity operating within the Union. It should not prevent ADR entities from dealing with online disputes which have been submitted to them by a means other than the ODR platform.

Amendment 9
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 18
(18) A network of online dispute resolution facilitators should provide support to the resolution of disputes relating to complaints submitted via the ODR platform. That network should be composed of contact points for ODR in the Member States which host online dispute resolution facilitators.

(18) A network of consumer advisors should provide support to the resolution of disputes relating to complaints submitted via the ODR platform. That network should be composed of contact points for ODR in the Member States which host consumer advisors.

(19) The right to an effective remedy and the right to a fair trial are fundamental rights guaranteed in Article 47 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union. Online dispute resolution procedures cannot be designed to replace court procedures and should not deprive consumers or traders of their rights to seek redress before the courts. Nothing in this Regulation should, therefore, prevent parties from exercising their right of access to the judicial system.

(19) The right to an effective remedy and the right to a fair trial are fundamental rights guaranteed in Article 47 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union. Online dispute resolution procedures are not intended to and cannot be designed to replace court procedures, nor should they deprive consumers or traders of their rights to seek redress before the courts. Nothing in this Regulation should, therefore, prevent parties from exercising their right of access to the judicial system.

(24) In order to ensure uniform conditions for the implementation of this Regulation implementing powers should be deleted.
be conferred on the Commission in respect of the functioning of the ODR platform, the modalities for the submission of a complaint and co-operation within the ODR facilitators' network. Those powers should be exercised in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 182/2011 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 16 February 2011 laying down the rules and general principles concerning mechanisms for control by Member States of the Commission's exercise of implementing powers. The advisory procedure should be used for the adoption of implementing acts relating to the electronic complaint form given its purely technical nature. The examination procedure should be used for the adoption of the rules concerning the modalities of cooperation between the ODR facilitators of the network of online dispute resolution facilitators.

Amendment 12
Proposal for a regulation
Recital 25

(25) Since the objectives of this Regulation, namely to set up a European online dispute resolution platform for cross-border online disputes governed by common rules, because of the scale and effects of the action, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States and therefore be better achieved at Union level, the Union may adopt measures in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty on European Union. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Regulation does not go beyond what is necessary in order to

The Commission's draft proposal aims at establishing a European Online Dispute Resolution platform “ODR platform”. It will be an interactive website offering consumers and traders a single point of entry for out of court resolution of certain disputes – contractual disputes arising from the cross-border online sale of goods or the provision of services by a trader established in a Member State to a consumer resident in another Member State. The platform will be free of charge and available in all official languages of the EU.

The proposal has to be looked at in conjunction with the draft proposal for a directive on alternative dispute resolution for consumer disputes (“ADR Directive”). This draft Directive aims at enhancing redress for consumers by ensuring that all consumer complaints can be submitted to an ADR entity (e.g. arbitrator, conciliator, ombudsman or complaints board) for out of court resolution.

The ODR platform will be able to identify a competent ADR entity falling under the ADR Directive and communicate core information about that entity (fees, language(s) of the procedure, binding/non-binding nature of the outcome of the procedure etc) to the parties. Upon agreement between the parties on which ADR shall treat the complaint, the platform will automatically transmit the complaint to that ADR entity, which will seek to resolve the dispute within 30 days applying its own rules of procedure. The trader's agreement to use ADR will be presumed if, according to the provisions on customer information in the ADR Directive, it has committed to use the ADR entity concerned on its website.

The platform will enable the parties and the ADR entity to conduct the dispute resolution procedure online. A "network of ODR facilitators" will be established to support the resolution of disputes which will be transmitted via the ODR platform.

Scope of the Regulation

Your Rapporteur supports the basic principle of making available voluntary ADR systems in every economic sector to facilitate consumer redress.

Your Rapporteur welcomes the fact that the draft Regulation applies to complaints filed not only by customers but also by traders. While your Rapporteur agrees that, in purely statistical terms, most complaints will be lodged by consumers, it is important that the tool is also available to complaints by traders in cases of, for example, non-payment or refusal to accept delivery of goods. This is all the more important in light of the fact that the ADR system laid out by the draft Directive is voluntary and therefore it is essential that the legislation provides incentives for traders to commit to ADR.

However, your Rapporteur deplores the fact that the draft Regulation applies only to disputes arising from the cross-border online sale of goods or provision of services by a trader established in a Member State to a consumer resident in another Member State.

Your Rapporteur encourages Members to seek a more ambitious solution to that contained in the draft Regulation and proposes that its scope be extended to include domestic online disputes as it is often difficult for consumers to ascertain if they are buying products and services on a cross-border basis when carrying out online transactions.

Moreover, as the Internet economy is driven by the so-called network effect (i.e., the more a tool such as Google or Facebook is used, the more advantageous it is for users); the greater the number of disputes submitted by users to the ODR platform, the greater the incentive for ADR entities and for traders to cooperate with it, generating a "virtuous circle" that will benefit consumers, promote e-commerce and improve the functioning of the retail Internal Market. As the fixed costs of creating the platform will remain the same regardless of its scope, this "network benefit" will be achieved without causing a large increase in the total cost of running the enlarged platform.

Role of Facilitators

Your Rapporteur notes that the role of the network of ODR facilitators (which the Rapporteur intends to rename "consumer advisors") is quite limited in the draft Regulation. It is envisaged that these ODR consumer advisors will intervene only as a “last resort” to inform consumers of other means of redress when a dispute cannot be solved via the platform. They will also, only upon request, facilitate communication between the parties and the competent ADR entity. Additionally, they will draw up an annual activity report on the operation of the platform.

This is a direct consequence of an inherent contradiction in the draft Regulation – that the platform will be an IT tool operated by the European Commission from Brussels but facilitators will be based in the Members States.

Your Rapporteur calls for an increased role for the consumer advisors, so that they can be contacted by complainants at any point during the process of resolution of their complaint. They should be closely associated with the operation of the platform and available to “hold the hand” of consumers from the moment that the complaint form is filled in. Consumer advisors will help parties in choosing an ADR entity if more than one is identified by the ODR platform. They can also help to resolve language and translation problems if the dispute is cross-border in nature. Apart from helping complainants to use the ODR platform, consumer advisors should provide general information to consumers about their rights and suggest other courses of action, such as contacting the trader, starting judicial proceedings etc. If no ADR entity competent to resolve the dispute can be identified, the consumer advisors will also be a "last resort" for the parties by helping them to find an amicable solution.

Role of European Consumer Centres

The draft Regulation provides that Member States may confer the responsibility for carrying out the tasks assigned to facilitators to the European Consumer Centre network, consumer associations or any other body. Your Rapporteur would like to draw attention to the fact that ECCs are mentioned in EP and Council Decision 1926/2006 establishing the 2007-2013 consumer policy programme and that they already provide information and assistance to consumers to help them exercise their rights and obtain access to appropriate dispute resolution.

On this basis, it seems appropriate to amend the draft Regulation to set out that consumer advisors will be based in ECCs. This reinforcement of the role of ECCs will go a long way towards establishing a “one stop shop” for all queries from EU citizens. In order to achieve this, your Rapporteur proposes that the ODR be housed in the European Commission operated portal "Your Europe" which offers practical help and advice about the rights of EU citizens.
Time Periods

Your Rapporteur would like to remind you of the old principle “delayed justice is justice denied” and notes that the provisions on processing and transmitting complaints do not set any deadlines for the time period between filling in the complaint form on the ODR platform and either the submission of the complaint by the platform to the relevant ADR entity or, in the absence of agreement between consumer and trader to refer the matter, the moment in which the complaint shall not be processed further. Therefore, a time limit of seven working days is proposed for the processing of the complaint by the platform. This proposed change is accompanied by other modifications to clarify and streamline the workflow of the ODR platform.

On this basis, Your Rapporteur believes that the maximum time period of 30 days for the resolution of disputes by ADR entity should be amended. Instead, it is proposed that the time period for dispute resolution is extended to 90 days, in line with the provisions of the ADR directive. This time period will begin once the dispute is received by the ADR entity.

Data Protection

Your Rapporteur would like to recall the opinion of the European Data Protection Supervisor welcoming the fact that data protection principles have been included in the text, in particular in relation to the purpose and access limitation, the limitation of the retention period and the security measures provided in Article 11. Additionally, your Rapporteur proposes that data are shared with consumer advisors only on a "need to know" basis and that the Commission conducts privacy impact assessments.

Implementing and Delegated Acts

Your Rapporteur understands that the Commission needs some room to manoeuvre for the creation of this new instrument and its practical implementation.

However, in order to ensure that the European Parliament fulfils its role of oversight for the benefit of consumers, it is proposed that the implementing powers requested by the Commission in relation to (i) the functions of the platform, (ii) the modalities of cooperation between ODR facilitators, and (iii) the modalities of the electronic complaint form are replaced by delegated acts.

In particular, Your Rapporteur is concerned about the translation capabilities of the ODR platform and wants to ensure that it works correctly in every language combination. She also wants to ensure that the interface between consumers and the platform (i.e. the electronic complaint form) is customer friendly and easy to use. The best way to achieve these objectives is to make sure that the Parliament maintains a veto right over the Commission's proposals in this regard.
