

Question for written answer Z-000034/2015
to the European Central Bank
Rule 131
Fabio De Masi (GUE/NGL)

Subject: Country-specific volumes of purchases under the Outright Monetary Transactions (OMT) programme

Is it correct that, under the OMT programme, the ECB proposes to purchase only one third, at most, of the government bonds issued by a country? If so, where is that rule laid down and when and where was it decided on?