(21) There is a need to provide business statistics structured by sector of activity, in order to measure the productivity of businesses in the Union. In particular, there is an increasing demand of statistics on the services sector, which is the most dynamic sector of modern economies, especially in terms of that sector's potential for growth and employment creation and taking into account the relations with the manufacturing sector. Statistics on trade in services are essential for monitoring the functioning of the internal market for services and assessing the impact of barriers on trade in services.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

There is a growing demand for high quality statistics and data on business in the European Union. Data users, like private actors and policymakers, are making use of them to take evidence-based decisions, i.e. contribute to the strengthening of a single market based on knowledge and innovation.

European business statistics should be built upon a common and simple framework, with harmonized definitions that facilitate the understanding of the state of the EU’s economy. Data should be gathered in a cost-effective manner and provided in a timely way, with comparability across Member States.

Statistics and data on Business Services remain, a challenge, in particular, because of their relative paucity. The fact that the nature of the European economy is changing, with a blurred boundary between manufacturing and services, makes the situation even more challenging.

On many occasions, the European Parliament has repeatedly stressed the need for more accurate and timely data and statistics at a Union level, both through resolutions and own initiative reports. The Commission has responded to these demands with proposal for a new framework Regulation (FRIBS), which aims to integrate statistical requirements and legal acts for business statistics by streamlining and simplifying them. By amending Regulation (EC) No 184/2005 and repealing 10 existing legal acts, the Commission uses the Regulatory Fitness and Performance (REFIT) programme to create a common legal framework for the production and compilation of European Statistical System (ESS) business statistics, while at the same time extending the system to include services that were previously not covered.

In general, your rapporteur agrees with the Commission’s proposal. However, he seeks to improve the proposal by aligning it more with the purpose of REFIT: making it simpler, less costly and more predictable. While acknowledging the need to extend the coverage of the ESS to include certain services and the need for a flexible approach within the framework to allow adaptations to methodological developments and a timely response to the emerging needs of data-users, your rapporteur believes that it is further necessary to ensure that extra costs and administrative burdens on business, in particular SMEs, as well as Member States is limited to the minimum. Your rapporteur believes it is equally important, that the rules concerning the confidentiality of data be reinforced.
