Motion for a resolution
Annex I – Recommendation 8 – indent 1 a (new)

---

To avoid labour exploitation, the Union and the Member States should ratify the International Labour Organization’s Convention on Domestic Workers and ensure that employment standards are fully applied. The Commission should facilitate social dialogue with the aim of including domestic and care work within existing national labour migration schemes, including those based on assessments of shortage occupations. In that regard, any future framework should integrate an intersectional perspective which pays specific attention to multiple forms of discrimination and different experiences that migrant women face, particularly in sectors in which women are predominantly employed, such as healthcare and domestic and care work.
