European Parliament resolution on the use of sexual violence in conflicts in North Africa and the Middle East

The European Parliament,

- having regard to its resolution of 26 November 2009 on the elimination of violence against women,
- having regard to its resolution of 17 February 2011 on the situation in Egypt,
- having regard to its resolution of 7 March 2011 on the Southern Neighbourhood, and Libya in particular,
- having regard to the declaration by the Vice-President/High Representative, Catherine Ashton, on behalf of the European Union on the International Women's Day, 8 March 2011,
- having regard to the provisions of the UN legal instruments in the sphere of human rights, in particular those concerning women's rights, such as the UN Charter, the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the International Covenants on Civil and Political Rights and on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, the Convention for the Suppression of the Traffic in Persons and of the Exploitation of the Prostitution of Others, the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW) and its Optional Protocol, the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment,
- having regard to the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action adopted by the Fourth World Conference on Women on 15 September 1995 and to Parliament's resolutions of 18 May 2000 on the follow-up to the Beijing Action Platform and of 10 March 2005 on the follow-up to the Fourth World Conference on Women - Platform for Action (Beijing+10)<sup>1</sup> and of 25 February 2010 on the follow-up to the Beijing Action Platform (Beijing +15),
- having regard to the UN General Assembly resolution of 19 December 2006 entitled 'Intensification of efforts to eliminate all forms of violence against women' (A/RES/61/143), and to UN Security Council Resolutions 1325 and 1820 on women, peace and security,
- having regard to the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court, adopted in 1998, and particularly Articles 7 and 8 thereof, which define rape, sexual slavery, enforced prostitution, forced pregnancy and forced sterilisation or any form of sexual violence as crimes against humanity and war crimes and equate them with a form of torture and a serious war crime, whether or not such acts are systematically perpetrated during international or internal conflicts,

- having regard to Rule 110(2) of its Rules of Procedure,
  - A. whereas women have actively participated in the recent uprisings for more democracy, rights and freedoms in Tunisia, Egypt and Libya,
  - B. whereas the incumbent regimes in Libya and Egypt have resorted to sexual assaults as part of the conflict in these revolutions, targeting women and in particular, making them vulnerable,
  - C. whereas sexual violence seems to be used as a systematic way to intimidate and degrade women,
  - D. whereas the rally on 31 March 2011 at Tahir (Liberation) Square in Benghazi demonstrated support for rebel fighters, showed that Muslim women in eastern Libya are not forbidden from gathering or expressing themselves under Islamic law and countered Gaddafi's claims that rebel movement is being driven by Islamics, Al Qaeda supporters,
  - E. whereas a Libyan woman, Iman al-Obeidi, who told reporters in a Tripoli hotel about being gang-raped and abused by soldiers, was detained on 26 March 2011 in an unknown location and is now being sued for defamation by the men she is accusing of rape,
  - F. whereas in Egypt female protestors claim they were subject to virginity tests by the military, being rounded up from the Tahrir Square on 9 March 2011 and subsequently subjected to torture and rape, while the virginity tests were performed and photographed in the presence of male soldiers,
1. Calls on the Commission and the Member State governments to strongly oppose the use of sexual assaults, intimidation and targeting of women in Libya and Egypt;
  2. Recommends that an independent inquiry be established to hold the perpetrators accountable, with particular reference to the investigation of crimes committed by Gaddafi under the terms of the International Criminal Court;
  3. Stresses that everyone should be able to express their views on the democratic future in their country without being detained, tortured or subjected to degrading and discriminatory treatment;
  4. Strongly believes that the changes taking place in North Africa and the Middle East must contribute towards the end of discrimination of women and their full participation in society on equal terms with men and in compliance with the United Nations Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women, CEDAW;
  5. Stresses the need to ensure women's rights generally in the new democratic and legal structures of these societies;
  6. Emphasises that the role of women in the revolutions should be acknowledged, including the threats they face and the way in which they can defend their rights;

7. Stresses that there is a need to prioritise human rights in ENP policies and to actively share EU experience on violence against women;
8. Emphasises the need to implement principle of equality of men and women, and to support specific actions so as to achieve an effective and systematic equality approach in the ENP countries; urges governments and civil society to increase women's social inclusion, including the fight against illiteracy and the promotion of employment so as to ensure a meaningful presence of woman on all levels, equality must become an integral part of the democratisation process;
9. Calls on the VP/HR, the EEAS and the Commission to place at the top of the agenda for their talks with ENP southern countries the EU's political priorities of death penalty abolition, respect for human rights, including women's human rights, and respect for fundamental freedoms, and the ratification of a number of international legal instruments, including the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court;
10. Calls on its President to forward this resolution to the Council, the Commission and the Vice-President of the Commission/High Representative of the Union for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy.
