

WRITTEN QUESTION E-3265/02
by Renzo Imbeni (PSE) and Guido Podestà (PPE-DE)
to the Council

Subject: Seat of the European Food Safety Authority

Now that the top-level managers responsible for European food safety policy have been appointed in both the Commission and the European Food Safety Authority, is the Council ready to take a decision within the next few months on the definitive seat of the European Food Safety Authority so that it can start carrying out its tasks under optimum conditions?

How does the Council intend to persuade the Heads of State or Government to comply with the functional criteria set by the Commission and the European Parliament when taking their decision?
