

WRITTEN QUESTION E-1207/04
by Claude Moraes (PSE)
to the Commission

Subject: Human rights in the Maldives

It has been brought to my attention that fundamental human rights, such as freedom of expression, are being abused in the Maldives. Efforts to bring about political reform and promote democracy are continually quashed, and dissidents commonly receive life imprisonment.

Is the Commission aware of this? Have there been, or will there be, efforts to address this situation?