

WRITTEN QUESTION E-3370/06
by Reinhard Rack (PPE-DE)
to the Commission

Subject: Minimum age for hiring a car

In many Member States, young people under the age of 21 are unable to hire a car because rental companies view the risk of accident as too high. Therefore, many young people opt instead for single-track vehicles, thus placing themselves at greater risk of being involved in a traffic accident.

Does the Commission see any way of counteracting this increased danger to young people in road traffic?
