

WRITTEN QUESTION E-2978/08
by Luis Herrero-Tejedor (PPE-DE)
to the Commission

Subject: Information and communication policy

How many of the decisions to adopt information and communication policy measures are taken in Brussels, and how many in the Member States?

Does the Commission consider the fact that most of the measures are centralised in Brussels to be compatible with the policy of bringing Europe closer to the public and to local realities, and if so in what way?
