

Question for written answer E-008750/2011
to the Commission
Rule 117
László Surján (PPE)

Subject: Forcing European citizens to choose banks preferred by their employers

On the basis of the survey of European citizens carried out as part of my constituency work, I would ask the Commission whether it is an infringement of European legislation for companies to order their employees to open the accounts into which their salaries are to be paid at particular banks preferred by the companies concerned.