

Question for written answer E-011073/2013
to the Commission
Rule 117
Rebecca Taylor (ALDE)

Subject: Airport body scanners

The Commission promised that it would inform Parliament of the conclusions of its legal assessment of the UK's 'no scan, no fly' policy concerning airport body scanners.

Given that the assessment was completed in July 2013, when does the Commission plan to inform Parliament and the other Member States of its conclusions, and how long has it given the UK Government to take corrective action before it begins legal infringement proceedings?