Subject: Expanded public urban transport with universal accessibility

My attention has been drawn in an e-mail enquiry to the issue of expanded public urban transport, in Hamburg, with universal accessibility. In this connection:

1. What EU legislation covers expanded public urban transport with universal accessibility, specifically the expansion of the Hamburg underground network?
2. Is there EU legislation which lays down a minimum or maximum distance for universally accessible entrances and exits? If so, what legislation?
3. Is there EU legislation which requires all underground stations to be universally accessible? If so, what legislation?
