

Question for written answer E-013190/2015
to the Commission
Rule 130
József Nagy (PPE)

Subject: Diplomatic relations with Arab states

The current influx of refugees has its origins in countries – mainly Arab states – where war is raging, and this is causing serious migratory pressure in Europe.

What diplomatic action is the EU taking to involve Arab countries not affected by the conflict, such as Saudi Arabia, in order to stabilise the region?

Is there a chance that these states will also take refugees? Is any diplomatic pressure being applied to them? Are negotiations in progress on this matter?