

Question for written answer E-001758/2017
to the Commission
Rule 130
Patrick O'Flynn (EFDD)

Subject: Europe for Citizens programme - specifically the addition of the 2017 priority 'Challenging Euroscepticism'

The Commission website setting out the 'Europe for Citizens programme' contains a section entitled 'Priorities for 2017' and, more specifically, point 1 on that list is 'Challenging Euroscepticism and fostering informed debate'<sup>1</sup>.

- Can the Commission define what it means by challenging Euroscepticism and what the criteria are for implementing such projects?
- Are there any current or upcoming projects related to challenging Euroscepticism?
- Can the Commission provide details on the budget and appropriate rules regarding funding for such initiatives?
