Subject: Attackers' Italian links and EU citizens' safety

According to media reports, 12 of the terrorists who carried out attacks in Europe (Berlin, Paris and London) during the past year, killing more than 200 people, lived permanently or temporarily in Italy, partly because of the relatively easy access to weapons and explosives.

1. Is the Commission aware of these links?
2. Are the services responsible for the security of Europe's citizens taking an interest in Italy?
3. What additional measures has the Commission taken in the past year to increase the security of EU citizens?
