

Question for written answer E-004068/2018
to the Commission

Rule 130

Mairead McGuinness (PPE)

Subject: Serbia - private property rights

It has been reported, through individual cases, that Serbian authorities are ordering the confiscation of private properties.

By so doing, the authorities are creating an apprehensive business environment, in which their actions are contrary to fundamental rights.

Through its monitoring of the rule of law in Serbia, does the Commission have a view about such actions and whether they might pose an impediment to Serbian membership of the EU in the future?