to the Commission
Rule 130
John Stuart Agnew (ENF)

Subject: Interpol and political intervention

Interpol has a history of abusing its own constitution by violating Article 3 with respect to interventions of a political, military, religious or racial nature. With the advent of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) and the difficulties already experienced with applying its strictures to EU security and intelligence agencies, has the Commission investigated possible misuse of the Schengen Information System by Interpol's National Central Bureaus in respect of similar activities?
