Subject: Use of taxes for investment in the ecological transition

Significant investment is needed to achieve the ambitions set by the European Green Deal, which will require the mobilisation of funds from both the public and private sectors. This flow of investment will also need to be sustained over time. Given the fact that Member States lose billions in revenue every year due to tax dodging, sums that could otherwise be invested in the ecological transition, does the Commission intend to tackle the harmful tax practices of Member States and to establish rules to determine the big companies to be taxed where income is generated?
