

Question for written answer E-001120/2020
to the Commission

Rule 138

Moritz Körner (Renew)

Subject: Preparing for the failure of the Privacy Shield

Several cases are currently pending before the CJEU, the judgments in which could lead to the invalidation of the Privacy Shield like the Safe Harbour Agreement which preceded it.

Even if the Commission is convinced that the Privacy Shield is lawful, has it made arrangements (alternative solutions, information to businesses and consumers concerned, etc.) in case the CJEU declares the Privacy Shield invalid? If so, what? If not, why not?