Subject: EEAS study on Palestinian school textbooks

In April 2019, the European External Action Service (EEAS) announced that the EU would commission a study on Palestinian school textbooks 'with a view to identifying possible incitement to hatred and violence and any possible lack of compliance with UNESCO standards of peace and tolerance in education'.

While the final report is expected in December 2020, what is the expected publication date of the study's 'interim results', and when will these be made available.
