Subject: Sources of the energy used in Commission buildings

Given that one of the main priorities of the Commission, including its President, Ursula von der Leyen, is the European Green Deal, ensuring climate neutrality by 2052 and moving economies over to the use of energy sources that do not emit greenhouse gases, I would like to ask the following:

1. From what sources, in percentage terms, does the energy used in the Commission's buildings come?
2. Are there plans to bring these buildings into line with the trends suggested by the Commission in the future?
