to the Commission

Rule 138

Christine Anderson (ID)

Subject: Petitions and their consideration at EU level

According to Article 44 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, any citizen residing in the European Union has the right to petition the European Parliament regarding matters which fall within the remit of the Union and concern the petitioner directly.

The coordinators of the respective committees are informed of the petitions submitted and decide whether they will be pursued.

Is the Commission aware of how many petitions are submitted at EU level by citizens of the Member States and of how often they are deemed admissible?
