

Question for written answer E-006332/2020
to the Commission
Rule 138
Harald Vilimsky (ID)

Subject: Animal transports and mobile slaughterhouses

Already some time ago, Germany and France introduced innovative slaughter methods — the so-called mobile slaughtering. This initiative prevents animals from having to suffer terribly while being transported for hours and days before slaughter.

1. Would it not be in the Commission's interest to finance and promote such projects — in Germany there is the so-called Extrawurst-Pilot Project for mobile slaughter?
2. Is the Commission aware of other such projects in other EU Member States, in order to be able to exchange information?