Rule 138

Dan-Ştefan Motreanu (PPE)

Subject: Pollinators under the EU's LIFE Programme

According to a study carried out by Britain's Royal Society, between 1992 and 2018 the EU's LIFE Programme mainly funded and focused on the protection of wild animals such as wolves, lynxes, brown bears and birds, while it almost completely neglected insects, which are crucial pollinators for our ecosystems and more at risk of extinction.

What actions does the Commission support in relation to the protection of insects and/or pollinators under the LIFE programme for 2021-2027?
