Subject: Situation of EU students studying at UK universities after Brexit

The UK's withdrawal from the EU has had wide-ranging consequences. One of these relates to the situation of EU students studying at EU universities. There are also questions about students participating in distance learning programmes at UK universities.

What changes await these students? Will they be able to continue their studies under the same conditions that applied when they entered those UK universities? Will diplomas have to be subject to a recognition procedure in order to be valid in the EU?
