

Question for written answer E-005092/2021
to the Commission

Rule 138

Özlem Demirel (The Left)

Subject: Project-based collaboration led by Greece and Italy

With the support of the Commission, like-minded Member States interested in doing so can enter into project-based cooperative activities on a range of issues. In 2020 the Commission launched a format of this type on the subject of 'Violent left-wing extremism and terrorism'. It is led by Greece and Italy, with 10 other Member States participating. When it has finished its work, the group aims to present its findings.

1. When was the project-based collaboration on the subject of 'Violent left-wing extremism and terrorism' started, when is it due to end, and who is taking part?
2. What is the Commission's contribution to the project-based collaboration in question?
3. What activities has this project-based collaboration engaged in, and when will its findings be available?
