1. The post in question was a retweet by the Representation in Poland (@EUinPL), which contained a headline message and referred to an original tweet in English from a member of the ‘think tank’ Forum Energii. There was no attempt to hide or distort information as the period for which the data was provided was clearly indicated in the information published by Forum Energii, which was linked in the original tweet. The Representation also clearly indicated the data period in its reply to a comment, which is visible in the thread below its post.

2. There was no statement in the published post on Poland increasing its dependence on imports from Russia in the context of a possible Russian aggression against Ukraine, at that point in time.

3. The Union is committed to fighting disinformation and to maintaining the highest possible standards of public debate irrespective of the participants concerned. This includes naturally material that is posted on all its social media accounts.