

Question for written answer E-001309/2022
to the Commission

Rule 138

Moritz Körner (Renew)

Subject: Camera lenses

In its reply to my question for written answer E-002777/2019, the Commission stated that ‘the Radio Equipment Directive 2014/53/EU establishes a framework for market access of products that communicate with radio waves, including laptops. A study is underway in support of a possible delegated act aimed at ensuring that radio equipment incorporate safeguards to protect personal data.’

1. What are the conclusions of the study?
2. Will the Commission propose mandatory physical lens covers for laptops as a safeguard to protect personal data and in order to respect Article 25 of the General Data Protection Regulation? If not, why not?
