The NextGenerationEU campaign is about the impact of EU’s response to the Covid-19 crisis through specific policies and programmes, the concrete action the EU takes to support the green and digital transitions and improve people’s lives, and the added value of acting together at EU level, to build stronger economies and resilience.

The Commission ensures full transparency on EU budget spending and informs the public about the actions funded by the EU. All information on NextGenerationEU (NGEU) and the EU’s long-term budget is publicly available on the NextGenerationEU\(^1\) and the Recovery and Resilience Facility (RRF)\(^2\) webpages. Specific information is provided with regard to the repayment of NGEU debt\(^3\). It also includes the available information about the funding. In addition, the Commission has launched the Recovery and Resilience Scoreboard in accordance with the RRF Regulation which provides information on the implementation of the RRF\(^4\).

Through the campaign and the above-mentioned other channels, the Commission fulfils its duty to provide information to the public on EU policies and funding. As foreseen in the RRF regulation\(^5\) the Commission engages in communication activities to ensure the visibility of the EU funding, including through joint communication activities with the national authorities concerned.
