

Question for written answer E-003839/2022
to the Commission
Rule 138
Tomas Tobé (PPE)

Subject: Aid effectiveness progress report

On 25 November 2020, Parliament adopted a resolution on improving development effectiveness and the efficiency of aid. In the resolution, Parliament calls on the Commission to publish, at least biannually, an aid effectiveness progress report, covering joint planning, joint implementation and joint results frameworks, and actions by EU institutions, Member States and local and regional authorities. In the face of multiple overlapping global crises and major development challenges in EU partner countries, it is crucial that we maximise aid effectiveness and increase the impact of our development cooperation. A progress report on aid effectiveness would enable us to identify clear and measurable results, as well as key issues that need to be addressed in order to reinvigorate development effectiveness and achieve more rapid progress.

1. Will the Commission respond to Parliament's call and draw up an aid effectiveness report?
2. Will the Commission commit to making it a regular practice to publish such a report at least biannually?

Submitted: 28.11.2022