to the Commission

Rule 138

Chris MacManus (The Left)

Subject: Crypto-asset exchanges

High-profile collapses of crypto-asset exchanges and other scandals have focused attention on the need to ensure maximum international cooperation on the monitoring and regulation of crypto-assets.

The UK has now published plans to regulate the industry, while the USA is reportedly preparing legislation.

1. How will the Commission ensure maximum international cooperation to prevent arbitrage?
2. What is the Commission's assessment of the compatibility of the British plan with the proposed Markets in Crypto-assets (MiCA) regulation?
3. What engagements does the Commission have on the matter with other important economic powers, such as China, India, the UK and the USA?
