Subject: Creation of European partnership programmes for the training of staff working in energy-intensive industries

The Commission has announced the launch of partnership programmes for energy-intensive industries (EIs), whose objective is to secure the EU's position as a global leader in both green industry and the digital transition by ensuring that its EIs workforce possesses the required skillset.

Given that EIs employ over seven million workers in the European Union, can the Commission outline:

1. How it intends to develop partnerships to train workers in the EIs sector?
2. What financial instruments it will adopt to support the aforementioned training programmes?
