

Question for written answer E-002487/2023
to the Commission
Rule 138
Jordi Cañas (Renew)

Subject: Serious incidents in Spanish territorial waters of the coast of Gibraltar

Three serious incidents occurred in Spanish territorial waters near the Rock of Gibraltar in August 2023. Firstly, the Panama-registered LNG tanker Gas Venus spilled fuel in Gibraltar while bunkering¹, which is in breach of Royal Decree 1620/2012². Secondly, three vessels from the UK Revenue and Customs and the Royal Navy attempted to prevent the Spanish Customs Surveillance Service vessel Colimbo II from doing its work to combat smuggling. In the latest incident, the Spanish fishing vessel Mi Daniela and its captain were harassed by Gibraltarian maritime police vessels in Spanish waters near the Rock.

The assets ceded to the British Crown ('the town and castle of Gibraltar, together with the port, fortifications, and forts thereunto belonging') are set out in Article X of the 1713 Treaty of Utrecht; these do not include jurisdiction over territorial waters. This principle was reaffirmed in Spanish Supreme Court ruling 1621/2001.

In light of the above:

Will the Commission safeguard the rights over Gibraltar's Spanish territorial waters as defined in the Treaty of Utrecht of 1713 when negotiating the EU-UK Trade and Cooperation Agreement?³

Submitted: 30.8.2023

¹ 'The permanent anchoring of bunkering tankers in the waters within the protected area is prohibited'.

² https://www.boe.es/diario_boe/txt.php?id=BOE-A-2012-14698.

³ https://commission.europa.eu/strategy-and-policy/relations-non-eu-countries/relations-united-kingdom/eu-uk-trade-and-cooperation-agreement_es.