

Question for written answer E-002630/2023
to the Commission

Rule 138

Loucas Furlas (PPE)

Subject: Green measures and agriculture

The transition to the green era is an established fact, and, once again, Europe is taking the lead, pointing the way to a cleaner and safer environment.

However, as we know, transition does not happen automatically; it requires harmonisation, with more environment- and people-friendly rules.

The green transition in the agricultural sector requires changes in the traditional supply chain, with new rules that sometimes place a financial burden on farmers and, at other times, are not altogether comprehensible to the professionals in the sector.

In view of this:

1. Can the Commission say in what ways Europe's farmers are being supported in adapting smoothly to the new requirements created by environmental measures?
2. What steps are being taken to ensure they are informed fully and in good time of all the European Union's new requirements and standards?
