Subject: EU Trust Fund for Colombia due to come to an end

Since its creation in 2016, the EU Trust Fund for Colombia has been a flexible and effective tool for promoting peace, democracy and human rights.

As stated in written question E-002261/2023¹ about funding mechanisms to support the strengthening of Colombian communities, the end of this mechanism is a concern for Colombian civil society and victims of conflict who understand how it could hamper progress in the implementation of the 2016 Final Peace Agreement and in talks and negotiations with the armed groups National Liberation Army (ELN) and Central General Command (EMC). Some Member States, as well as the EU itself, are participating in these negotiations as guarantors and partners.

How does the Commission plan to contribute financially to peacekeeping in Colombia when the fund comes to an end?
