Motion for a resolution

Amendment

2c. Notes that Recital 9 of the IAS Regulation allows a degree of flexibility when making a decision to endorse an IFRS by not requiring "a strict conformity with each and every provision of those Directives"; suggests however that this does not extend to allowing IFRS to deviate so far from the general purpose of the 2013 Accounting Directive, which replaced the 4th and 7th Accounting Directives referenced in Article 3.2(i) of the IAS Regulation, that the result of doing so would result in financial statements that overstate profits or understate losses; considers, in this regard, that the endorsement of IAS 39 was possibly contrary to this general purpose of the 4th and 7th Accounting Directives, superseded by the 2013 Accounting Directive, due to its incurred loss model, in particular Article 31. 1 (bb) of the Fourth Council Directive 78/660/EEC, which stated "all foreseeable liabilities and potential losses arising in the course of the financial year concerned or of a previous one [should be measured and recognised], even if such liabilities or losses become apparent only between the date of the balance sheet and the date on which it is drawn up";
