B. Exchanges of views/Decisions

1. Exchange of views on the Hearing of Juan Menéndez-Valdés, the EU-OSHA Executive Director-nominee [CK/LS]

Decision:

Several groups expressed reservations following the hearing of the candidate. Despite the experience and knowledge, his performance was considered not convincing because his answers on the two pending court cases at the ECJ were too vague and he was not aware of any case at OLAF in the 10 years when he was director. Furthermore, he did not respond to the question on the Eurofound internal survey where 40% of staff claim their working conditions have an impact on their health.

D. Items for information

Coordinators took note of the information provided in this section

1. Targeted consultation meeting 29 June 2021 on micro credentials with Commissioner Gabriel and Commissioner Schmit [LS]

Background

Micro-credential is a qualification evidencing learning outcomes acquired through a short, transparently-assessed course or module. Micro-credentials may be completed on-site, online or in a blended format.

The flexible nature of these qualifications allow learning opportunities to be opened up to citizens, including those in full-time employment.

This makes micro-credentials a highly flexible, inclusive form of learning allowing the targeted acquisition of skills and competences.

Micro-credentials are offered by higher and vocational education and training (VET) institutions, as well as by private organisations.

They can be particularly useful for people want to:

- build on their knowledge without completing a full higher education programme
- upskill or reskill to meet labour market needs or to develop professionally after starting work

On 20 April 2021, the European Commission launched a 12-week public consultation on a European approach to micro-credentials for lifelong learning and employability<sup>[1]</sup>.

The public consultation seeks to collect ideas for the development of a common definition for micro-credentials, European Union (EU) standards for their quality and transparency and the next steps to be taken at the institutional, national and EU levels.

Within Europe, a growing number of citizens need to update their knowledge, skills and competences to fill gaps between their formal education and the needs of a fast-changing society and labour market.

The recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic and the need to accelerate the green and digital transitions also requires individuals to upskill or reskill.

Maintaining and acquiring new competences is also essential to enable active participation in society, to ensure continued personal, social and professional development and to boost employability and socio-economic innovation.

However, without common standards ensuring quality, transparency, cross-border comparability, recognition and portability, micro-credentials cannot reach their full potential.

The Commission, therefore, seeks to develop a common definition and European standards for micro-credentials, which are independent from the awarding body, building on existing tools as far as possible.

The intention to develop a European approach to micro-credentials was announced in:

- the Council Resolution on a strategic framework for European cooperation in education and training towards the European Education Area and beyond (2021-2030)
- the European Skills Agenda
- the Digital Education Action Plan (2021-2027)

In spring 2020, the Commission established an ad-hoc consultation group formed of experts in higher education, including practitioners, members of quality assurance agencies and guest speakers from across Europe.

The group held three virtual meetings between 26 May and 17 September 2020 and proposed a common European definition, common characteristics and a roadmap of actions.

This roadmap puts forward suggestions for actions needed at the European and national levels to develop and implement a European approach and proposes a timeline.

The roadmap focuses on the following actions:

- developing common European standards for quality and transparency, together with all involved stakeholders (the education and training community, labour market actors, social partners, youth organisations, civil society, chambers of commerce, employers from all EU Member States and European Higher Education Area countries)
- exploring the inclusion of micro-credentials in national qualification frameworks with possible reference to the European Qualifications Framework
- developing a list of trusted providers and fostering quality assurance processes
- exploring how the European Credit Transfer and Accumulation System (ECTS) can be used in the context of micro-credentials at other education levels and in other sectors

- working on guidelines for more rapid recognition by adapting existing validation and recognition instruments or by developing new ones
- making it easier for individuals to store and showcase their micro-credentials through Europass and its digital credentials infrastructure, as well as the European Student Card initiative
- using micro-credentials to improve access to lifelong learning opportunities by ensuring better permeability between education and training sectors and ensuring an informed learner choice by expanding guidance services underpinned by real time labour market data
- providing EU support through the Erasmus+ Programme and Structural Funds for higher education, VET and other education and training institutions and providers to promote the uptake of micro-credentials

The suggested actions concentrate mainly on higher education, but also address other levels and sectors of education and training.

These outputs will feed into wider consultations covering all sectors of education and training contributing to the preparation of a Council Recommendation on micro-credentials for lifelong learning and employability by the end of 2021.

In this context, Commissioners Gabriel and Schmit have proposed to meet some CULT and EMPL committees members to discuss various higher education initiatives, in particular micro-credentials.

The format of the meeting will be as follows:

- In camera meeting, 29 June at 11h30 (one hour)
- Venue: remote
- EMPL: Chair and one representative per group
- CULT: Chair and one representative per group

3. Revised JURI guidelines for the application of Rule 149 of the Rules of Procedure [ABR]

On 26 May 2021, the Committee on Legal Affairs endorsed the revised Guidelines for the application of Rule 149 of the Rules of Procedure adopted by JURI committee in accordance with Rule 149(6).

It consists on a clarification with regards to the elements that are indispensable for a request for recommendation made by committees to the Committee on Legal Affairs and concerning a possibility to bring an action before the Court of Justice of the European Union. The Committee on Legal Affairs considers that this clarification will allow to properly and timely assess the request, prepare and decide on its recommendation to the President and subsequently for the President to take the final decision as to whether or not to bring an action and, if relevant, to instruct the Legal Service to take the necessary steps.

Consequently, point 2 of the JURI guidelines now reads [emphasis in italics added]: “2. The Secretariat will keep the standing rapporteur informed of all matters relating to disputes. Cases may be raised by the Legal Service or another committee, but the Secretariat may also decide to bring a matter to the attention of the standing rapporteur of its own motion. When cases are raised by another committee, the request by that committee to the Committee on Legal Affairs to issue a recommendation shall be accompanied by the relevant opinion of the Legal Service on the basis of which that committee decided to make its request.”

This structure will ensure that both committees and political groups are involved, will act as a contact point for VP Šefčovič, and will provide regular input to the Conference of Presidents. Organisation and membership are as follows:
