Amendment

2. By way of derogation from paragraph 1, economic operators shall not place on the market packaging in the formats and for the purposes listed in point 3 of Annex V as of 1 January 2030. deleted

Or. en

Justification

There is no reason to allow single use plastic packaging for foods and beverages filled and consumed within the premises in the HORECA sector to go on until 2030. Alternatives are available widely already now. It is enough to give the sector one year to change. As the date of application is one year after entry into force (see Commission proposal Article 65), the postponement until 2030 should be deleted.

Or. en

Justification

According to HOTREC and EFFAT, there are around 2 million businesses in the EU in the HORECA sector. Out of those, 91% are microenterprises (1). Exempting microenterprises from the prohibition to use single use plastic packaging for foods and beverages filled and consumed within the premises in the HORECA would make the prohibition almost meaningless. Alternatives are available widely already now. They should also be used by microenterprises.

When adopting those delegated acts, the Commission shall consider the potential of the restrictions on the use of specific packaging formats to reduce the packaging waste generated while ensuring an overall positive environmental impact, and shall take into account the availability of alternative packaging solutions that meet requirements set out in legislation applicable to contact sensitive packaging, as well as their capability to prevent microbiological contamination of the packaged product.*

Justification

The restrictions listed in Annex V, particularly those related to food packaging, which aid in preventing food loss and waste along the supply chain, maintaining the quality and hygienic of food and ensuring food safety during transport and distribution, and extending its shelf life, are not properly justified by the impact assessment that supports the proposal. The proposed packaging restrictions have potential consequences to human health and food safety and therefore it is needed to carefully evaluate them in advance. Economic actors need time to integrate the requirements into their business models with regard to the restrictions on non-food packaging products. Any further restrictions to placing on the market certain packaging formats should be considered after thorough assessment and be decided by the co-legislators.

4. The Commission shall be empowered to adopt delegated acts in accordance with Article 58 to amend Annex V in order to adapt it to technical and scientific progress with the objective to reducing packaging waste and improving the overall environmental outcome, which may require specific waste streams departing from the hierarchy where this is justified by life-cycle assessment. When adopting those delegated acts, the Commission shall consider the potential of the restrictions on the use of specific packaging formats to reduce the packaging waste generated while ensuring an overall positive environmental impact, and shall take into account the availability of alternative packaging solutions that meet requirements set out in legislation applicable to contact sensitive packaging, as well as their capability to prevent microbiological contamination of the packaged product.

Amendment

4. The Commission shall be empowered to adopt delegated acts in accordance with Article 58 to amend Annex V in order to adapt it to technical and scientific progress with the objective to reducing packaging waste and improve the best overall environmental outcome justified by life-cycle thinking provided for in paragraph 2 of Article 4 of Directive 2008/98/EC. When adopting those delegated acts, the Commission shall consider the potential of the restrictions on the use of specific packaging formats to reduce the packaging waste generated while ensuring an overall positive environmental impact, and shall take into account the availability of alternative packaging solutions that meet requirements set out in legislation applicable to contact sensitive packaging, as well as their capability to prevent microbiological contamination of the packaged product.

Or. en

Justification

The Waste Framework Directive explicitly foresees that making the choice that delivers the best overall environmental outcome justified by life-cycle thinking may require specific waste streams to depart from the hierarchy. In contrast to the waste hierarchy as defined by the WFD, this proposal takes a very rigid approach to the hierarchy and prioritises re-use over recycling, without due consideration to the overall environmental performance. The proper application of the hierarchy as defined by the WFD should be applied consistently throughout the Regulation.

Amendment 1749

Edina Tóth

Proposal for a regulation

Article 22 – paragraph 4

Text proposed by the Commission

4. The Commission shall be empowered to adopt delegated acts in accordance with Article 58 to amend Annex V in order to adapt it to technical and scientific progress with the objective to reducing packaging waste. When adopting those delegated acts, the Commission shall consider the potential of the restrictions on the use of specific packaging formats to reduce the packaging waste generated while ensuring an overall positive environmental impact, and shall take into account the availability of alternative packaging solutions that meet requirements set out in legislation applicable to contact sensitive packaging, as well as their capability to prevent microbiological contamination of the packaged product.

Amendment

4. The Commission shall adopt delegated acts in accordance with Article 58 to add or remove packaging formats from Annex V based on an impact assessment study assessing alternatives of restricted packaging formats, in order to adapt it to technical and scientific progress with the objective to reducing packaging waste. When adopting those delegated acts, the Commission shall consider the potential of the restrictions on the use of specific packaging formats and their alternatives to reduce the packaging waste generated while ensuring an overall positive environmental impact, and shall take into account the availability of alternative packaging solutions that meet requirements set out in legislation applicable to contact sensitive packaging, as well as their capability to prevent microbiological contamination of the packaged product.

Or. en

Justification

Restrictions cannot be supported without a full assessment of alternative solutions. The restrictions on certain single-use packaging formats should only be set in a way that they take into account any unintended consequences, and make sure that the functionality of the packaging is retained and that other parameters (such as the protection of packaged products and the resources required for packaging production) are not adversely affected.

Amendment

4a. Member States, regional or local authorities may adopt restrictions on the use of packaging formats other than those listed in Annex V to reduce packaging waste.

Or. en

Justification

It is important to grant Member States the power at all levels (national, regional, local) the power to restrict the USE of packaging formats other than those that are already restricted. This would for example allow them to adopt restrictions at public events or in public institutions. This is compatible with the internal market legal basis, as it does not affect the placing on the market, but only the use.

1. Economic operators who place reusable packaging on the market shall ensure that a system for re-use of such packaging is in place, which meets the requirements laid down in Article 24 and Annex VI, except in cases where packaging is re-used as tableware or kitchenware

Or. en

Justification

Some containers are originally conceived, designed and manufactured to be used as tableware and kitchen utensils, and also serve for packaging during a part of their life cycle. Due to their ability to withstand thermal shocks and be dishwasher, freezer, and/or microwave proof, these products are typically sold with specific labeling and certification. This sets them apart from other products made specifically to be utilized as packaging, which must be discarded after a single use or require the establishment of a re-use system in order to be used again. Customers can easily wash and dry ceramic containers after purchasing them as part of a food product's packaging and then add them into their kitchen or dining set. After that, the container becomes a part of the consumer's kitchen or tableware collection and can be used repeatedly, just as if the ceramic container had been purchased initially for that use. This reduces the amount of packaging waste produced.

Or. en

Justification

Any targets for packaging reuse must be based on available feasibility studies, real-world circumstances, logistical considerations and potential effects on consumer health and safety. They must consider the complexity of transport packaging design that is suitable for a wide range of large household appliances which have for purpose the protection of the product as well as ensuring consumers' safety.

appliances listed in point 2 of Annex II to Directive 2012/19/EU available on the market for the first time within the territory of a Member State shall ensure that 90 % of those products are made available in reusable transport packaging within a system for re-use or in single-use transport packaging with a minimum of 90% recycled content.

Or. en

Justification

The Waste Framework Directive explicitly foresees that making the choice that delivers the best overall environmental outcome justified by life-cycle thinking may require specific waste streams to depart from the hierarchy. In contrast to the waste hierarchy as defined by the WFD, this proposal takes a very rigid approach to the hierarchy and prioritises re-use over recycling, without due consideration to the overall environmental performance. The proper application of the hierarchy as defined by the WFD should be applied consistently throughout the Regulation. It is not apparent that reusable transport packaging has a superior environmental performance in 90% of cases, therefore it is appropriate to put re-use on equal footing with recycling to allow economic operators to choose the most environmentally sound solution.

Or. en

Justification

In the same way that there are exemptions in other paragraphs for paper board and corrugated board packaging, there is no sense, at least from an environmental perspective, to include this type of packaging in the re-use circuit.

Justification

The sale of large household appliances takes place mainly in online marketplaces. Including them in the scope of this article would reduce the production of harmful packaging, and is aligned with the Rapporteur's inclusion of e-commerce sector in the EPR.

Or. en

Justification

Reuse in the food and beverage takeaway industry has a negative impact on the environment, with the Commission's impact assessment not really address the issue, also from a food safety point of view. Due to this and the absence of a comprehensive framework among the Member States, it is impossible to set particular reuse goals in these industries or the larger beverage industry without first conducting a thorough investigation.

Or. en

Justification

The impact assessment accompanying this proposal does not address the environmental impact of reuse in the food and drink takeaway sector. Specific targets for reuse cannot be set without a proper impact assessment including a clearly defined methodology. The suitability of reuse targets for specific packaging should be evaluated according to criteria such as the infrastructure and logistics required for the collection and transport of reusable packaging, the preparation of the packaging for reuse (washing) and hygiene requirements.

(b) from 1 January 2040, 80 % of those beverages are made available in reusable packaging within a system for re-use or by enabling refill.

Or. en

Justification

The Waste Framework Directive explicitly foresees that making the choice that delivers the best overall environmental outcome justified by life-cycle thinking may require specific waste streams to depart from the hierarchy. In contrast to the waste hierarchy as defined by the WFD, this proposal takes a very rigid approach to the hierarchy and prioritises re-use over recycling, without due consideration to the overall environmental performance. From a life-cycle perspective, it is not apparent that re-use for take-away generally provides for a more desirable overall environmental performance.

Justification

Reuse and refill should not be mixed up. Reuse can be measured easily. That is not the case for refill. Therefore, this article should deal with reuse alone. Single use beverage containers represent a huge and growing amount of waste that is all too often littered. Reusable packaging systems for take away already exist in several Member States. Amendment 1834

Proposal for a regulation

Article 26 – paragraph 3

Text proposed by the Commission

Amendment

3. A final distributor that is conducting its business activity in the HORECA sector and that is making available on the market within the territory of a Member State in sales packaging take-away ready-prepared food, intended for immediate consumption without the need of any further preparation, and typically consumed from the receptacle, shall ensure that:

deleted

(a) from 1 January 2030, 10 % of those products are made available in reusable packaging within a system for re-use or by enabling refill;

(b) from 1 January 2040, 40 % of those products are made available in reusable packaging within a system for re-use or by enabling refill.

Justification

The Waste Framework Directive explicitly foresees that making the choice that delivers the best overall environmental outcome justified by life-cycle thinking may require specific waste streams to depart from the hierarchy. In contrast to the waste hierarchy as defined by the WFD, this proposal takes a very rigid approach to the hierarchy and prioritises re-use over recycling, without due consideration to the overall environmental performance. From a life-cycle perspective, it is not apparent that re-use for take-away generally provides for a more desirable overall environmental performance.

Or. en

Justification

The sector of sport activities, as well as the creative, arts and entertainment sector, represent closed loop sectors with the opportunity to tackle single use of packaging whereas reusable packaging or packaging with better life cycle performance could be used. Additionally, such activities usually have the infrastructure to promote reusable packaging.

enabling refill.

Or. en

Justification

At the moment there are substantial divergences in reuse practices in the different Member States especially in light of different level of investments in recyclings which were made across the European Union. Moreover one also has to keep in mind that different Member States have different geographical and natural realities and the challenges for areas with limited water resources should not be underestimated. A reasonable transition period which caters to the different realities of different Member States needs to be provided. Moreover more time is needed to have better scientific evidence which lays out the circumstances and sectors in which reuse would give more environmental benefits than the other elements of the waste hierarchy.

Amendment

5a. The obligation laid down in paragraph 4 does not apply to packaging for wines, aromatized wine products and spirituous beverages as defined by the nomenclature codes:

ex 2204 Wine of fresh grapes, including fortified wines; grape must other than that of heading 2009;

ex 2208 Undenatured ethyl alcohol of an alcoholic strength by volume of less than 80 % vol; spirits, liqueurs and other spirituous beverages;

Or. en

Justification

The proposal aims at ensuring that the constraints existing for these products are taken into account. The wine as well as the AWP sectors is an export-focused industry, mostly formed of small and medium-size enterprises, with most products being consumed outside their producing area, making the re-use scheme inefficient. Mandatory reuse targets for glass bottles are structurally unpracticable for the EU wine and AWP industry. Any introduction or development of the re-use model shall be based on a voluntary basis and supported by governmental resources and incentives.

Justification

For highly perishable drinks and beverages, certain single use packaging has a superior performance in extending shelf life and preserving nutrients and vitamins, therefore helping to avoid food waste which is in line with the principle of making the choice that delivers the best overall environmental outcome justified by life-cycle thinking, as defined by Article 4 Paragraph 2 of the Waste Framework Directive.

Justification

The impact assessment accompanying this proposal does not address the environmental impact of reuse in the food and drink takeaway sector. Specific targets for reuse cannot be set without a proper impact assessment including a clearly defined methodology. The suitability of reuse targets for specific packaging should be evaluated according to criteria such as the infrastructure and logistics required for the collection and transport of reusable packaging, the preparation of the packaging for reuse (washing) and hygiene requirements.

Business-to-business packaging and all related requirements should be removed as there are already established systems in place. Justification

The Waste Framework Directive explicitly foresees that making the choice that delivers the best overall environmental outcome justified by life-cycle thinking may require specific waste streams to depart from the hierarchy. In contrast to the waste hierarchy as defined by the WFD, this proposal takes a very rigid approach to the hierarchy and prioritises re-use over recycling, without due consideration to the overall environmental performance. The proper application of the hierarchy as defined by the WFD should be applied consistently throughout the Regulation. It is not apparent that reusable transport packaging has a superior environmental performance in 90% of cases, therefore it is appropriate to put re-use on equal footing with recycling to allow economic operators to choose the most environmentally sound solution.

Or. en

Justification

Huge amounts of packaging are used in the B2B sector. At the same time, it presents a low-hanging fruit where major quantities of packaging waste could be saved by reuse systems.

The more ambitious scenario in the Commission's impact assessment should be followed.

Amendment

10. Economic operators using grouped packaging in the form of boxes, excluding paper board and corrugated board, used outside of sales packaging to group a certain number of products to create a stock-keeping unit shall ensure that:

Or. en

Justification

The word "cardboard" could in some cases mislead. Technically speaking, cardboard refers to a thick paper layer, whereas corrugated board is the board made of different layers of paper, at least 3, the one in the middle being corrugated. Since the original proposal is to cover both types as this type of packaging uses both types of cardboard, a more technical definition should improve the text.
