Motion for a resolution

Amendment

1. Welcomes the Commission's intention to review the European Standardisation System with a view to preserving its many successful elements, improving its deficiencies and striking the right balance between the European and national dimensions; stresses that the proposed review should build on the strengths of the existing system, which constitute a solid basis for improvement, refraining from any radical changes that would undermine the core values of the system; invites the Commission, in collaboration with stakeholders, to find new ways to optimise the effective adoption of European standards;

Lara Comi, Andreas Schwab, Anna Maria Corazza Bildt, Wim van de Camp

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 5

5a. Stresses that the European Union and Member States should make it possible to take greater account of the interests of SMEs and craft enterprises when drawing up standards by implementing the strategic measures contained in the 'Small Business Act', in accordance with its seventh principle: EU financial support, cutting the cost of access to standards, the systematic publication of abstracts of European standards, and the equitable composition of standardisation committees;

Paragraph 5 b (new)

Motion for a resolution

5b. Stresses that SMEs, although they represent an essential part of the European market, they are not adequately involved in the standardisation system and cannot, therefore, exploit entirely the benefits derived from standardisation; believes that it is essential to improve their representation and participation in the system, especially in the technical committees at national level; asks the European Commission to identify, through its impact assessment in the context of the revision of the European Standardisation System, the best way to reach this aim, evaluating the necessary funding to help SMEs;

Paragraph 7
Motion for a resolution

7. Recognises that service standards often respond to national specificities and that their development is related to the needs of the market; stresses, however, that the development of European service standards, as provided for in Directive 2006/123/EC on services in the internal market, will benefit further harmonisation in the services sector, increase the transparency, quality and competitiveness of European services and promote competition, innovation, the reduction of trade barriers and consumer protection;

Amendment

7. Recognises that service standards often respond to national specificities and that their development is related to the needs of the market, the interests of consumers and the public interest; stresses, however, that the development of European service standards and the drawing-up by professional bodies of their own quality charters or labels, as provided for in Directive 2006/123/EC on services in the internal market, may benefit further harmonisation in the services sector, increase the transparency, quality and competitiveness of European services and promote competition, innovation, the reduction of trade barriers and consumer protection;

8. Supports, therefore, the Commission’s intention to include service standards in the legal framework of European standardisation, as this will not only ensure the notification of all national service standards that could potentially constitute technical barriers to trade in the internal market, but also provide a proper legal basis on which the Commission can request the European standardisation organisations (ESOs) – namely CEN, CENELEC and the European Telecom Standards Institute (ETSI) – to develop standards in the services sector;

Amendment

8. Supports, therefore, the Commission’s intention to include service standards in the legal framework of European standardisation, as this will ensure the notification of all national service standards that could potentially constitute technical barriers to trade in the internal market; stresses, at the same time, that moves towards new service standards should originate not with public authorities but with the relevant undertakings themselves, where such standards are actually needed by those undertakings;

Amendment

8. Supports, therefore, the efforts made by professional bodies to draw up quality charters and labels that apply alongside national and European law governing the professions, and the Commission’s intention to include service standards in the legal framework of European standardisation in the case of services for which standardisation is possible and which do not have quality charters drawn up by professional organisations; stresses that there are definable and indefinable
Telecom Standards Institute (ETSI) – to develop standards in the services sector; services, whereby highly qualified intellectual and spiritual services are not definable in Europe's understanding of the law, and standardisation in this area can apply only to the framework conditions (technical and actual preconditions, etc); believes that service standards which meet these criteria may provide a proper legal basis on which the Commission can request the European standardisation organisations (ESOs) – namely CEN, CENELEC and the European Telecom Standards Institute (ETSI) – to develop standards in the services sector;

8. Supports, therefore, the Commission’s intention to include service standards in the legal framework of European standardisation, as this will not only ensure the notification of all national service standards that could potentially constitute technical barriers to trade in the internal market, but also provide a proper legal basis on which the Commission can request the European standardisation organisations (ESOs) – namely CEN, CENELEC and the European Telecom Standards Institute (ETSI) – to develop standards in the services sector;

Amendment

8. Suggests that the Commission encourage participants to develop service standards within the legal framework of European standardisation organisations (ESOs) – namely CEN, CENELEC and the European Telecom Standards Institute (ETSI) – in order to ensure the notification of all national service standards that could potentially constitute technical barriers to trade in the internal market and ultimately to avoid as much as possible this fragmentation between different national standards; calls on the Commission to include service standards in the legal framework of European standardisation if the results obtained by ESOs on a voluntary basis prove to be insufficient, thus providing a legal basis that allows the Commission to ask ESOs to develop standards in the services sector;
Amendment 32
Zuzana Roithová

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 8 a (new)

8a. Believes that it is necessary to find an agreement between the Member States on establishing minimum European standards for products which affect the healthy development of the population (such as orthopaedically sound footwear for children). Such standards would ensure not only that the quality of goods manufactured in the EU is maintained, but also and above all that the quality of goods imported from third countries is significantly improved; calls therefore on the Commission and the European standardisation organisations, in the light of the findings of scientific studies showing that there is a link between orthopaedically unsound footwear and the increasing occurrence of orthopaedic defects amongst the populations of EU Member States, to establish European standards in this area.;

Amendment 33
Konstantinos Poupakis

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 8 a (new)

9. Reaffirms that European standardisation in support of "New Approach" legislation has proved to be a successful and essential tool for completion of the single market; notes that the number of standardisation mandates supporting legislation in areas beyond those covered by the "New Approach" has increased in recent years, indicating that this model has been adopted across a broad range of EU policies; believes that it is desirable to extend the use of standards in other areas of Union legislation and policies beyond the single market, taking into account the specificities of the areas concerned, in accordance with the principles of better regulation;

Paragraph 10

Motion for a resolution

10. Maintains that it is of the utmost importance to draw a clear line between legislation and standardisation in order to avoid any misinterpretation with regard to the objectives of the law and the desired level of protection; stresses that the European legislator must be highly vigilant and precise when defining the essential requirements in regulation, while the Commission must clearly and accurately define the objectives of the standardisation work in the mandates; stresses that the role of standardisers should be limited to defining the technical means of reaching the goals set by the legislator, while ensuring a high level of protection;

Amendment

10. Maintains that it is of the utmost importance to draw a clear line between legislation and standardisation in order to avoid any misinterpretation with regard to the objectives of the law and the desired level of protection; stresses that the European legislator must be highly vigilant and precise when defining the essential requirements in regulation, while the Commission must clearly and accurately define the objectives of the standardisation work in the mandates; stresses that the role of standardisers should be limited to defining the technical means of reaching the goals set by the legislator as well as ensuring a high level of protection;

Edvard Kožušník, Lara Comi, Mitro Repo, Toine Manders, Malcolm Harbour

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 10 a (new)
10a. Reiterates that it is essential for European standards to be developed within a reasonable period of time, in particular in those areas where standards are needed quickly in order to meet the requirements of public policies and rapidly changing market conditions; invites, therefore, the European and national standards bodies to continue improving their efficiency and effectiveness, bearing in mind that the acceleration of the standardisation process must not take place to the detriment of the principles of openness, quality, transparency and consensus among all interested parties;

Amendment 38
Edvard Kožušník, Mitro Repo, Toine Manders, Malcolm Harbour

10b. Believes that the standardisation process will be partly accelerated through a better consultation between the Commission and the ESOs prior to issuing a mandate, which will enable them to respond quicker, preferably within a two-month period, about their possibility to undertake a standardisation work;

Paragraph 10 c (new)

Motion for a resolution

10c. Notes the importance of the Directive 98/34 Committee as a forum between the European Commission and the Member States in the discussion of issues related to technical regulations and standardisation; considers that European Parliament representatives should be invited to the meetings of this Committee (or its successor body) which should be also, where appropriate, open to the observership of the European and national standardisation bodies and European-level stakeholder organisations, especially during the discussion of standardisation mandates;

Paragraph 11

Motion for a resolution

11. Urges the Commission to develop and implement improved systems for coordinating standardisation policy and activities, which should cover all the public-policy aspects of the standardisation process, from the preparation and delivery of mandates, through the monitoring of technical committee work, ensuring that the standards produced meet the essential requirements of the respective legislation, to the formal adoption, publication and use of the standards;

Amendment

11. Urges the Commission to challenge the ESOs (CEN, CENELEC, ETSI) to improve and monitor their processes for coordinating standardisation policy and activities, which should cover aspects of the whole standardisation process, from the preparation and delivery of mandates, through the monitoring of technical committee work as well as the assessment that mandated standards are consistent with EU policies and legislation which may exist in the concerned domain;
calls on the Commission to revise and rationalise the process to deliver standardisation mandates to ESOs, so as to include a consultation phase with relevant stakeholders and a thorough analysis that justifies the need for a new standard setting activity, in order to insure the relevance of standard setting, avoid duplication and the proliferation of divergent standards and specifications;

Amendment 41
Anna Maria Corazza Bildt

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 12

12. Stresses the important role of the "New Approach consultants" in verifying that harmonised standards comply with the corresponding EU legislation; draws attention to the fact that such consultants are currently selected by, and operate within, the ESOs, which places a significant administrative burden on these organisations and, at times, causes concern among stakeholders about the impartiality and independence of the process; calls on the Commission, therefore, to assess the need for a review of the existing procedures; believes, furthermore, that the Commission should identify a procedure for ensuring that mandated standards comply with other EU policies and legislation beyond the scope of the "New Approach"; considers that this should take place during the development of the standards in order to avoid delays and inefficiencies due to ex-post rejection;
Amendment 42
Edvard Kožušník, Toine Manders, Malcolm Harbour

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 12 a (new)

Motion for a resolution

Amendment

12a. Calls on the Commission and the Member States to check standards against delivery in a more thorough way in order to ensure that they meet the requirements of the mandate, in particular when the standards are used for the purposes of ‘New Approach’ legislation, while ensuring that no significant delay shall be added to the standards approval; intends to examine – in the context of the forthcoming review of the European Standardisation System – the possibility of extending to the Parliament the right, currently accorded to the Commission and Member States, to dispute a harmonised standard which does not appear to entirely satisfy the essential requirements of the corresponding legislation;

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 12 b (new)

Motion for a resolution

Amendment

12b. Asks the Commission, for the sake of transparency, to make decisions on formal objections to standards public in a consolidated way, and make available an updated table of all actions in relation to formal objections; calls also on the Commission to present an annual report on the standardisation mandates and the progress on their fulfilment;
Amendment 44
Edvard Kožušník, Mitro Repo, Toine Manders, Malcolm Harbour

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 12 c (new)

12c. Invites the ESOs to reinforce their existing appeal mechanisms which are meant to be used should a disagreement over a standard arise; notes that the current mechanisms may not always be effective as their composition reflects in practice the position of those that approved a standard; proposes, therefore, to enlarge the composition with the participation of external independent experts and/or European societal stakeholders that are currently associate members or cooperating partners of the ESOs;

Amendment 45
Edvard Kožušník, Lara Comi, Mitro Repo, Toine Manders, Malcolm Harbour

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 12 d (new)

12d. Is aware that the current system of EU funding in support of European standardisation often leads to frustration in terms of rule changes, the large cost of auditing and delays in the authorisation of payments; stresses that there is an urgent need to reduce these costs and the high administrative burden that at times outweigh the benefits of the provided financial support, while respecting EU financial rules; considers that the Commission and the ESOs could improve their cooperation in order to guarantee a stable and user-friendly framework for the EU financial contribution to European standardisation which will increase significantly the efficiency of the system;

Amendment 46
Edvard Kožušník, Mitro Repo, Malcolm Harbour

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 12 e (new)

Motion for a resolution

12e. Expresses its support for the Keymark, a voluntary European certification mark, owned by CEN/CENELEC, which demonstrates compliance with European standards; stresses that the Keymark is a valuable alternative to the various national certification schemes that entail multiple testing and marking of products in several Member States and can therefore become a barrier to trade within the Internal Market and cause significant costs for small companies that may be reflected in higher prices for the consumer; encourages, therefore, national standards bodies, and other national certification bodies, to promote the Keymark as an alternative to national certification schemes; calls also for a pan-European information campaign in order to raise awareness amongst business and consumers about the benefits of the Keymark;

14. Encourages European and national standardisation bodies, therefore, to promote and facilitate effective participation in the standardisation process by all interested parties, in particular representatives of small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs), consumers (including people with disabilities and vulnerable consumers), environmentalists, workers and bodies representing other societal interests;

Amendment

14. Encourages European and national standardisation bodies, therefore, to promote and facilitate effective participation in the standardisation process by all interested parties, in particular representatives of small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs), consumers (including people with disabilities and vulnerable consumers), environmentalists, workers and bodies representing other societal interests; this facilitation may, inter alia, involve better possibilities for providing assistance especially to parties that have no commercial interest in the standardisation process, e.g. consumer representatives;

Motion for a resolution

15. Stresses the need, which has been recognised since the 1990s, to ensure direct participation by societal stakeholders at European level in order to reflect their views more effectively, given that their representation on national technical committees remains weak; affirms that, as very limited progress has been made to increase societal stakeholder participation at national level, financial and political support for the European organisations established to represent such stakeholders needs to be maintained at least in the period to 2020;

Amendment

15. Criticises the fact that the representation of societal stakeholders on national technical committees remains weak and that since the 1990s very limited progress has been made to increase societal stakeholder participation at national level; calls therefore on the Commission to investigate the reasons for the low level of societal stakeholder participation at national level and, where appropriate and on the basis of the results, to draw up binding rules for the Member States which will give societal stakeholders access to the national standardisation process;

Amendment 94
Damien Abad, Catherine Soullie

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 23

23. Reiterates that, although small and medium-sized enterprises form the backbone of the European economy, their involvement in standardisation is not always commensurate with their economic importance; emphasises that standards should be designed and adapted to take account of the characteristics and environment of SMEs, in particular small, micro and craft enterprises; welcomes recent initiatives taken by the European and national standardisation bodies to implement the recommendations in the study on SME access to European standardisation; stresses that further measures should be taken to ensure that SMEs can participate fully in the development of standards and have adequate access to them;

adequate access to them; fully in the development of standards and have adequate access to them;

Amendment 96
Jürgen Creutzmann

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 24

24. Maintains that users’ access to European standards developed in support of EU policies and legislation is an important issue that needs to be further examined; takes the view that different systems of price setting should be considered for private/industrial standards and for harmonised/mandated standards; calls, in particular, on NSBs to reduce costs through special rates and by offering bundles of standards at a reduced price, and to investigate additional ways of improving access, especially for SMEs;

Amendment 97
Mitro Repo

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 24 a (new)

24a. Reminds, however, that the purchase price of a standard corresponds only to a small proportion of the overall cost incurred by standards users who usually need to dedicate substantially more resources in order to transpose the required standard into their business process;

Lara Comi, Andreas Schwab, Wim van de Camp

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 26 e (new)

26e. Believes that the European programmes for innovation and research can provide an important contribution to the standardisation process by devoting a chapter to "research and standardisation"; considers that such a measure would contribute financially to the system, while at the same time increasing the knowledge of the operators
Amendment 109
Edvard Kožušník, Lara Comi, Mitro Repo, Toine Manders, Malcolm Harbour

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 27 a (new)

27a. Reaffirms that tackling climate change and other future global energy and environmental challenges implies developing and promoting clean technologies and green products; considers, therefore, that there is an urgent need to integrate environmental aspects into all relevant products and services, and that the European Standardisation System needs to develop an improved system to ensure such aspects are properly addressed when standards are developed; stresses the need to promote the active involvement in standardisation committees – at national and European level – of environmental organisations and public authorities responsible for environmental protection;

Amendment 110
Edvard Kožušník, Mitro Repo, Malcolm Harbour

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 27 b (new)

27b. Points out that both intellectual property rights (IPRs) and standardisation encourage innovation and facilitate the dissemination of technology; emphasises that a correct balance should be established between the interests of the users of standards and the rights of owners of intellectual property; calls on European and national standards bodies to be particularly vigilant when developing standards based on proprietary technologies, in order to allow broad access to all users; stresses the need to ensure that licenses for any essential IPRs contained in standards are provided on fair, reasonable and non-discriminatory conditions; encourages owners of intellectual property to apply royalty-free policies in order to promote the broad implementation of the standards;

Amendment 111
Jürgen Creutzmann

Motion for a resolution
Paragraph 28

28. Recognises that fora and consortia contribute considerably to the standardisation system by providing specifications with global relevance, which are often more receptive to innovative technologies; points out that, most notably in the ICT sector, a number of fora and consortia have evolved into global organisations producing widely implemented specifications on the basis of open, transparent and consensus-based development processes; believes that the ESOs and fora/consortia must find ways of cooperating in planning their activities by transferring standards to the most appropriate level, international or European, in order to ensure coherence and avoid fragmentation or duplication; calls on the ESOs to develop and implement an improved mechanism for the adoption of fora/consortia specifications as European standards, which should not restrict the possibility of submitting them directly to international standards organisations in order to seek more global status; standards, *whereby consensus on the part of all stakeholders must be guaranteed through the established procedures for consulting all parties concerned in accordance with the national delegation principle; stresses that this should not restrict the possibility of submitting fora/consortia specifications directly to international standards organisations in order to seek more global status;
