,EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

EU trade relations with Liechtenstein are closely associated with EU trade relations with the Swiss Confederation, which is the European Union's fourth trading partner. The EU and Switzerland have defined their relations by establishing bilateral treaties in various fields. In order to minimise the negative consequences of the rejection of the EEA agreement by Switzerland in 1992, negotiations for commercial agreements were launched in seven sectors, including agricultural products. The "agricultural Agreement" was concluded in 1999 and has been in force since 1 June, 2002.

The EC-Switzerland agricultural Agreement was subsequently extended to the Principality of Liechtenstein. This extension (the "Additional Agreement") entered into force on 13 October 2007 and has implied that any modification to the agricultural Agreement causes a modification of the EU-Switzerland-Liechtenstein agreement.

Now, by adding a new annex (Annex 12) to the agricultural Agreement, the EU and Switzerland to ensure seek to ensure the mutual recognition of protected designations of origins and protected geographical indications in order to preserve the conditions of bilateral trade in agricultural products while promoting the quality of the food chain. Precisely, pursuant to the Additional Agreement, Liechtenstein products are deemed to be of Swiss origin. Therefore, the Additional Agreement between the European Community, the Swiss Confederation and the Principality of Liechtenstein also needs to be amended so that the protection of geographical indications also applies to Liechtenstein. Two names designated under Swiss Geographic Indications will also cover the territory of Liechtenstein.

The new Annex 12 to the "Agricultural Agreement" will improve of the bilateral EC-Switzerland agricultural trade. Therefore amending the "Additional Agreement" is also a positive and necessary step.

The rapporteur recommends Parliament to give its consent to the agreement.
